A League LOOK-AND-LAMENT Feature: CHEATED CHAMPIONS OF YOUR CHILDHOOD

No. 1: LEO BAXENDALE

Wotcher, mates! It's your madcap masters of ceremonies Al and Kev here, pretending to be two frankly baffled editorial employees working for British juvenile weeklies in the 1960s, who are themselves pretending to be unlikely English versions of Stan Lee and Jack Kirby for reasons they don't entirely understand, with the whole conceit thus being only comprehensible to elderly indigenous men who can't get over their childhoods – and if that's not a proper mouthful, then we don't know what bloomin' well is!

We wanted to kick off our brand-new, trouser-tickling TEMPEST serial with a regular feature celebrating the brutally mugged maestros of Britain's bright and breezy comic field, and where better to start than with that most genuinely glorious organised crime victim of them all, the legendary Leo Baxendale?

Born 1930 in working-class Lancashire and serving in the RAF before landing his first art job with Lancashire's Evening Post, Leo combined a love of Express cartoonist Giles – archetypal urban characters against beautifully realised English backdrops – with the mania of The Goon Show, into a style as springy and energetic as his trademark crop of curly hair. In 1952 he started work for notoriously frugal Dundee publishers D.C. Thomson, who famously issued metal holders for worn-down pencil stubs, creating the majority of their most popular characters (such as Minnie the Minx, Little Plum, the Bash Street Kids, and the Three Bears) before leaving the company in 1962, feeling overburdened and undercompensated. In 1964 he commenced work for Odhams' Marvel-aping 'Power Comics' line, creating legendary features like Eagle-Eye, Grimly Feendish and Bad Penny for Odhams' Wham! and Smash! weeklies. In short, he provided the furniture for most British childhoods.

Working for Fleetway/IPC after they absorbed Odhams, Leo finally abandoned weekly children's comics in exasperation during 1975, going on to produce the more sophisticated Willy the Kid for Duckworth, a legitimate grown-up publisher who treated creators fairly. Justifiably angry at the misappropriation of his most iconic creations, his curls greying as he reached his fifties, he fought a seven-year legal battle, for which he prepared with intense physical training, to retrieve his characters from D.C. Thomson. Predictably, as with creators around the world battling companies with inexhaustible legal resources, Leo was forced into an out-of-court settlement for a fraction of his beloved characters' value, their loss going a long way towards breaking the heart of this homegrown juvenile genius.

Focussed upon publishing with his Reaper Books imprint in later life and producing shrewd political analyses such as The Encroachment, Leo died of cancer in April 2017, leaving his wife Peggy and their five children. One of the giants on whose shoulders contemporary British comics are standing, an incalculable influence on everyone who followed him from the mighty political cartoonist Steve Bell to the current authors, Leo Baxendale was one of this country's greatest treasures and deserved a better industry to work in.

Blimey! After that lot we need a tea-break! See you with more media misery next issue, pals!

LINCOLN'S EITHER SLIGHTLY FURTHER NORTH, OR HE'S HAVING A STROKE.

Aleofane—it means 'Gem of Truth'—sounded promising. We were able to use our fame to buy information. Communication, however, was through facial tics.

Politically, things were tense in Fanattia. Half the population wanted to leave the archipelago while half wanted to wall off the island against immigrants.

US OUT NOW!

I, VULL THE INVISIBLE, CALL THIS MEETING TO ORDER! SINCE RECENTLY ANNOUNCING OUR EXISTENCE, THERE HAVE BEEN DEVELOPMENTS--

HOLD ON...

...WHO MADE VULL OUR LEADER? WE'VE NEVER SEEN HIM AND ALL WE HEAR IS THAT CRACKLY ELECTRIC VOICE!

BESIDES, WASN'T VULL "THE CROOK WHO HELD THE WORLD TO RANSOM"?

LECTRO GIRL

SILENTLY, VULL RECALLS A MURKY PAST...

YOU MAY AS WELL GIVE UP, VULL. I KNOW YOU'RE HERE AND I KNOW MY SHOT DIDN'T MISS.

YOU'RE LEAVING A TRAIL OF EVIDENCE BEHIND YOU.

C-CURSE YOU, WHOEVER YOU ARE! TH-THIS SHOULDN'T BE HAPPENING!

I--I THOUGHT I HAD YOU TRAPPED AND HELPLESS LIKE THE OTHERS, THEN YOU MADE YOUR LUCKY SHOT...

THAT WASN'T LUCK, VULL, IT WAS INFRA-RED GOGGLES.

THEY'RE NOT WIDELY AVAILABLE YET, UNLESS YOU'RE A GOVERNMENT AGENT.

S-SO YOU WERE HUNTING ME. B-BUT...=>COUGH=<... WHY?

MILITARY INTELLIGENCE WANTED TO MAKE SURE YOU WERE REALLY DEAD, BUT I HAVE MY OWN REASONS.

ONE DAY I MIGHT USE YOUR HELMET FOR SOMETHING OTHER THAN TYRANNY.

B-BUT THIS ISN'T RIGHT.

GOGGLES OR NO GOGGLES, YOU SHOULD HAVE BEEN TERRIFIED OF ME, A FRAIL...=>COUGH=<...FRAIL YOUNG THING LIKE YOU.

I'M NEITHER AS FRAIL NOR AS YOUNG AS YOU SUPPOSE, HENRIK VULL...

...AND YOU'RE NOT MY FIRST INVISIBLE MAN.

IN THE STAR CHAMBER'S JET-AGE CONFINES, AFTER A MOMENT'S REFLECTION, VULL REPLIES TO CAROL (ELECTROGIRL) FLANE'S ACCUSATION.

I AM SUCCESSOR TO THIS MANTLE, AND UNLIKE THE FIRST VULL, MY INTENTIONS ARE HONOURABLE.

MY COSMIC AWARENESS CONFIRMS THAT HE'S TELLING THE TRUTH!

THANK YOU. NOW, AS I WAS SAYING, SINCE OUR ANNOUNCEMENT, EVENTS HAVE OCCURRED.

MOST NOTABLY, THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAVE FORMED A RIVAL TEAM, "THE VICTORY VANGUARD."

CRIKEY! ISN'T ONE ENGLISH SUPER-SQUAD ENOUGH, DONCHA KNOW?

APPARENTLY NOT, FLASH AVENGER. BESIDES, OUR TEAM IS AFFILIATED WITH THE UNITED NATIONS THROUGH ME.

WITH THESE REPORTED AMERICAN SUPER-COMBOS, BRITAIN PROBABLY WANTED ONE OF ITS OWN.

I'VE MORE INFORMATION ON THE VANGUARD HERE...

OTHER MEMBERS ARE CRASH BRITTANUS, MR. APOLLO, SWIFT MORGAN AND MORGAN'S FEMALE ASSISTANT SILVER.

I DON'T HAVE PHOTOGRAPHS OF EVERYBODY...

HMM. HART'S FORMIDABLE, BUT THESE OTHERS...

IT'S AS IF THEY'VE ENLISTED ANYONE WHO WAS AVAILABLE.

I SEE WHAT YOU MEAN. WASN'T THIS MR. APOLLO REDUCED TO ADVERTISING BODY-BUILDING COURSES?

I SUPPOSE AFTER OUR GROUP, THERE WERE ONLY THESE LEFTOVERS.

ZOM SENSES GREAT SPIRIT IN THIS TOMMY WALLS...

MAYBE SO. BUT HE'S CALLED TOMMY WALLS. THESE PEOPLE SOUND MORE LIKE ADVERTISING MASCOTS THAN SUPER-ADVENTURERS.

=CHOKE= YOU MONSTERS! TOMMY WALLS WAS THE BRAVEST OF US, YET YOU BELITTLE HIM!

YOU DESERVE TO PERISH!

THAT'S WHY I'VE RETURNED TO YOUR FIRST-EVER MEETING TO PREVENT YOU FROM FORMING!

THAT WAY, YOU WON'T BE ABLE TO STEAL WHAT SHOULD HAVE BEEN OUR VICTORY OVER THE 'MASS AND TURN IT TO YOUR OWN--

YEEARRGH!

ZZIZZAP!

I SAY!

WHO THE BALLY HECK WAS THAT?

ZOM KNOWS NOT, SAVE THAT THIS MORTAL HAS PASSED INTO THE DARK REALM OF...THE ZODIAC!

DASH IT ALL! THEN WE'VE A BODY TO DISPOSE OF! POOR SHOW!

FEAR NOT! MY ZODIACAL POWERS CAN CHANGE HUMAN BEINGS INTO ANY FORM I PLEASE... SUCH AS ONE OF YOUR EARTHLY JUKE-BOXES!

HE SEEMED CONNECTED TO THAT GOVERNMENT GROUP. BUT WHY WOULD HE WANT TO KILL US?

YOU'RE JUMPING TO CONCLU-SIONS!

I DON'T BELIEVE FOR A MOMENT THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT WOULD TRY TO ASSASSINATE US!

WITH RESPECT, CAPTAIN UNIVERSE, THAT WASN'T MY EXPERIENCE ARRIVING FROM MARS...

THIS WAS THE LATE 1940s. THE TYRRANICAL BIG BROTHER REGIME CONTROLLED BRITAIN.

MARSMAN RECOUNTS HIS TALE...

"I WAS BORN GARATH GANZZ IN NEW VARNAL TO A THARK FATHER AND A SO-CALLED 'RED MARTIAN' MOTHER. WE HYBRIDS OFTEN HAD SPECIAL POWERS."

LOOK! HE'S TALENTED!

BUT NOT GREEN. THAT'LL COUNT AGAINST HIM.

"MARS HAD COLOUR-BARRIERS BACK THEN. LUCKILY MY ABILITIES SECURED ME A JOB WITH INTELLIGENCE, REPORTING FROM POST-WAR EARTH."

INTERPLANETARY INTELLIGENCE, EH? YOU SHOULD BOARD THE GULLIVAR JONES.

"NEWLY ELECTED, THE BIG BROTHER REGIME WAS UNEXPECTED. AS MARSMAN I EVADED CAPTURE THOSE NEXT EIGHT YEARS.

"OTHER EXTRATERRESTRIALS SUFFERED DETENTION AND EXTERMINATION."

MARSMAN CONCLUDES HIS ACCOUNT...

THAT REGIME FELL LESS THAN A DECADE AGO. MANY OF THE SAME OFFICIALS ARE STILL IN POWER.

HMM. PERHAPS YOU'RE RIGHT.

LET'S VISIT THIS "VICTORY VANGUARD." WE'LL EXIT VIA NIGHTMORE STREET...

AND SO...

PERHAPS WE'LL LEARN MORE ABOUT OUR MYSTERIOUS LATE ASSAILANT... AND WHAT HE MEANT BY "THE 'MASS!"

LEAVING THEIR BASE BY JETPACK, FLASH-PLANE OR THEIR OWN POWER, THE SEVEN STARS ZOOM INTO ACTION!

MEANWHILE, AT THE TOP SECRET H.Q. OF BRITAIN'S SPYMASTERS, SHADOWY SECRETS ARE DISCUSSED...

YOU KNOW, GEORGE, I SUSPECT WE'VE MADE A ROD FOR OUR OWN BACKS WITH JOHNNY SUPERHERO.

H-HOW DO YOU MEAN, M?

BASICALLY, WHEN WE ACTIVATED THE MURRAY GROUP IN 1898 WE STARTED A PRODIGY RACE.

THE FRENCH AND GERMANS FIELDED THEIR RESPECTIVE TEAMS, THEN, AROUND 1920, AMERICA BELATEDLY COMMENCED ITS OWN PROGRAM.

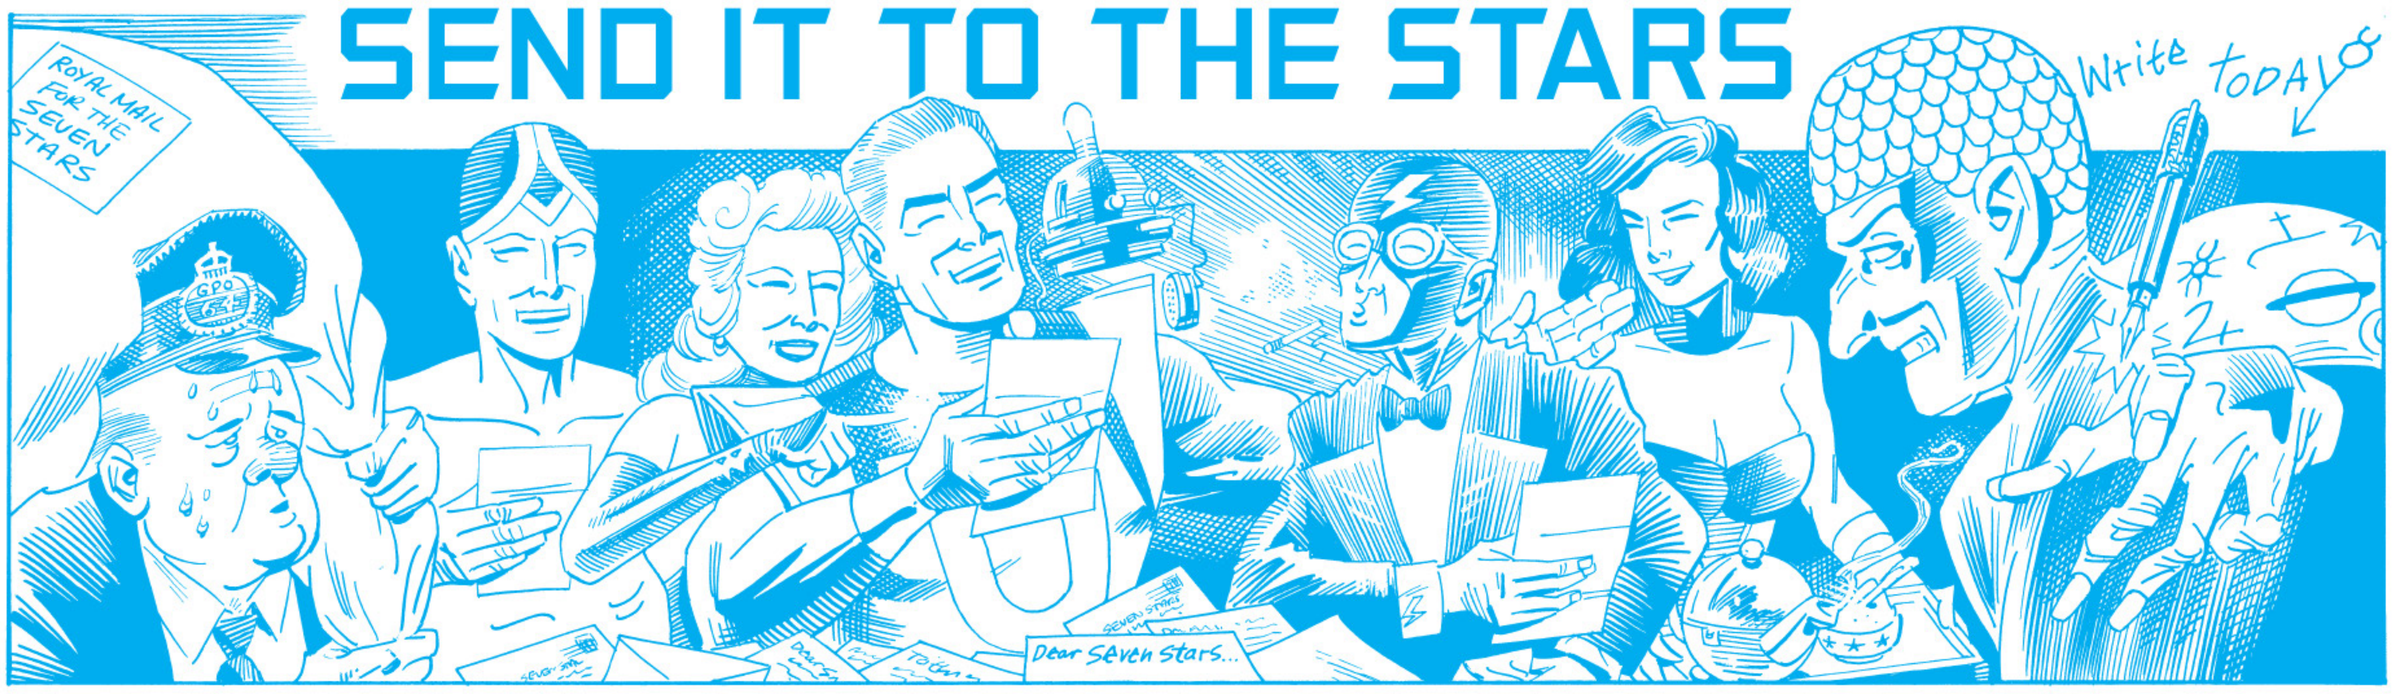
SEND IT TO THE STARS



We look forward to receiving your electronic mail! Send it here: tothestars@knockabout.com

What-Ho, readers! It's your curmudgeonly cartoon-strip commissars Al and Kev here, crouching in our combined utility closet and office amid a much bigger professional publishing concern that has fortunately forgotten our existence. Despite all our cheery and alliterative bluster, we're unhappy alcoholics who have very few friends of our own age, so any day that starts with a lilting letter from one of our rollicking readers is another day where we don't put a long-arm stapler to our temples and depress the plunger. And in that spirit, welcome to our first ever scintillating Seven Stars letters page! Without further ado, let's see what's on the minds of all you salivating Seven Stars supporters out there!

Dear Al and Kev: My American pen pal Chuck is visiting and asked for a go of my "headlight comics"? Confused but happy to oblige I gave him some British picture weeklies with a strong selection of motoring strips. Despite the Bristol drop-heads and Ford Escorts none seemed to quench his desire. He was more entertained by my copy of Seven Stars, claiming it came close to the comics he had in Chicago. He had some with him but my dad thought they were just a load of Muscle Mary nonsense and my pen pal might be a hoarse bandit – but he seems honest enough. Keep up the good work, and Chuck says "More Satin and less spelling things funny". Peter Thicket, Salisbury

Well, Peter, our old China, you've certainly set us a poser there! By "headlights", could Chuck be thinking about those occasions when, for example, Zom of the Zodiac has the idea of changing somebody into a trouser-press and we see a little lightbulb floating above his head? That would be a sort of "head-light", wouldn't it? Or then again, he might mean tits.

Dear Al and Kev: Time travel – really!!! My brain hurts simply subtracting me long devotion and learning French herbs and grama. Can we just have costumed punch-ups and fewer or better still NO GIRLS? After a long day at school I don't want to be reading MORE homework, unless it's proper crime stuff that shows how to rob people and not get caught, like in my Uncle Ted's old comics from the army. 'Cocky' Bevan, Lewisham, London

Cocky, while we of course sympathise with your yearning for more flamboyantly-dressed all-male violence, we have friends in Lewisham who inform us that you are in fact a 57-year-old lecturer at the London School of Economics. Please don't write to us again.

Dear Editor: As a schoolmaster of 30 years' experience, I must protest about this Seven Stars Yankee-style Comic Cuts rubbish being proffered to impressionable British youth. Confound it, sir, do you have little or NO shame? We died in the war to stem this flow of might-is-right trash – there! Now look what you made me do: "trash", indeed. I meant foul transatlantic garbage. Aagh! Damn you, sir. I am infected like Al Capone's gusset. My M.P. shall be alerted to your publication, and legal action may follow.
Abraham Crockett (Ret.), Andover

Blimey O'Reilly! Steady on, Mr. Crockett, or you'll burst a blood vessel! (Seriously, though, sir, we assure you that these are wholesome British characters, thematically copied and in some instances actually traced from despicable American sources. If we sometimes put a spurious price of ten cents on the cover, this is only to convince our barely-literate underclass readership that they are buying a competently-crafted imported U.S. comic-book title rather than a shoddy sixpenny knock-off printed in black and white on toilet paper. Therefore the only message in our harmless periodicals is that BRITISH might is right, even if it has to dress up as an American. As for legal action, since we're already facing extradition and the death penalty in Texas over our recent Captain Marvellous publication, frankly, chum, you can do your worst.)

Dear Al and Kev: I look up to the Flash Avenger because he seems posh, but I am frightened of Zom. What is Zom? Is he a ghost, or a Dracula, or something even worse? What scares me most, even more than when he turns people into tractors or small regional lending-libraries, is the way that he always pauses before he says "…of the Zodiac!" Why does he do this? Sometimes he comes into my dreams, and starts what seems to be a casual conversation, like for example, "Hello, Halliburton. I was just thumbing through this newspaper to see what horoscope predictions had been made for the different signs…", and then he pauses and just looks at me, and I know what he's going to say, and the pause just goes on and on – sometimes I even have another dream during the pause – and the tension gets worse and worse, and then he says, "…of the Zodiac!", and I wake up screaming. Honestly, Al and Kev, I'm a bag of nerves. Please answer my questions about Zom before I do something desperate. Halliburton Shrewsbury, Shrewsbury

Your piteous puzzler had us stumped, Halliburton, so we decided to ask Zom himself – who is a real person and who says he vividly remembers the so-called "dream" occasions that you mention – the next time he called at our titanic Tempest Comics offices to collect his royalty cheque. He seemed either sad, sardonically amused or possibly furious, and said "Tell the mortal Shrewsbury that it is not for him to fathom the timeless enigmas…"

Anyway, that's all of your captivating comments that we have room for this issue. Keep those cards and envelopes coming in, and we'll see you next time! Ta-ta from your pesky pals –

"…of the Zodiac!"

Al and Kev

VULL'S VAULT OF VITAL STATISTICS No. 1:

CAPTAIN UNIVERSE

Crossing the Galaxy at a Galap!

Welcome, Readers, to the files I secretly keep on my friends and co-workers. We start with CAPTAIN UNIVERSE, U.N. astrophysicist JAMES LOGAN, brother of interplanetary adventurer JET "ACE" LOGAN. Created by British workhorse MICK ANGLO, in 1954 Jim Logan was transformed by science-immortals into Captain Universe, super-marvel King of the Spaceways. In 1959, battling American superhuman STARDUST THE SPACE WIZARD, Captain Universe succeeded in killing his freakish rival and commandeering Stardust's headquarters — a hollow artificial sun — as his own. In 1964 he was affiliated with the United Nations super-team THE SEVEN STARS, retiring later that same year for reasons presently unknown.

No. 2: FRANK BELLAMY

How do, you 'orrible lot! It's your Fuhrers of Fun Al and Kev here, still trapped as pseudo-American cockneys in a parodic travesty of the 1960s which we hadn't really thought through and, frankly, wish we'd never started. Welcome to the spectacular second issue of your tolerance-trampling TEMPEST and another pugnacious profile of publishing's most pilfered paragons, with this month's maltreated majesty being none other than England's sultan of style, Frank Bellamy.

Frank Alfred Bellamy, the British comic world's most distinctive adventure illustrator, was born in Kettering, Northamptonshire, during 1917. Polishing his skills at local artist William Blamire's studio from age sixteen, Frank met future wife Nancy while stationed at Bishop Auckland during WWII, buying ridiculous amounts of toothpaste from the branch of Woolworths where she worked as an excuse to see her. They married in 1942 and Frank started illustration work for the Kettering Evening Telegraph before moving in 1953 to Mickey Mouse Weekly, followed rapidly by his work on King Arthur and Robin Hood for Swift, and then, in 1957, on that most celebrated and most middle-class of English weeklies, The Eagle.

Commencing with back-cover illustrated biographies — including Biblical King David and Winston Churchill, these doing much to establish Bellamy as a first-rate illustrator — before long he took over the prestigious Dan Dare feature from its recently-robbed creator, Frank Hampson. After a year, Bellamy transferred his talents to what would be perhaps his greatest works: in 'Fraser of Africa,' he indulged his passion for that continent to tremendous effect (he'd previously illustrated League stalwart Allan Quatermain in King Solomon's Mines, his work admired by painter Sir William Russell Flint), while in Frank's beautiful 'Heros the Spartan' he established a ground-breaking style that has been much imitated, albeit unacknowledged, by later comic creators dealing with that celebrated warrior race.

With The Eagle's decline, he switched in 1965 to TV Century 21, based around Gerry and Sylvia Anderson's TV puppet shows, where he drew the luscious 'Thunderbirds' lead feature. In 1966 he contributed, memorably, to the 'Winged Avenger' episode of television's The Avengers, and in 1971 he took over The Daily Mirror's 'Garth' newspaper strip from artist John Allard, electrifying the long-running narrative with his dazzling array of shading and lighting effects. Following his sudden death in 1976, it's alleged that Nancy Bellamy contacted the publishers who'd absorbed The Eagle, asking if some of Frank's artwork could be returned to cover her mounting expenses, only to be told, brutally, that there was nobody who would even recognise her husband's art — possibly because said art had been misappropriated and sold over the years by persons working in editorial or publishing, a not-unknown comic industry phenomenon. Frank Bellamy was among the greatest talents this medium ever produced, and whoever stole his work was stealing gold.

Stone the crows! Looks like we got out the wrong side of bed this morning, and no mistake! Join us here next time for more commemorative cartoon castigation from your aggressive amigos —

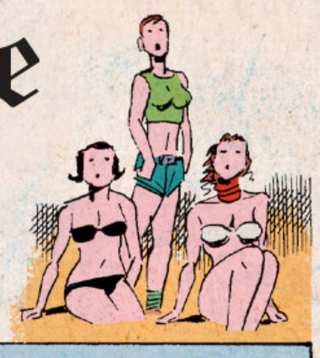
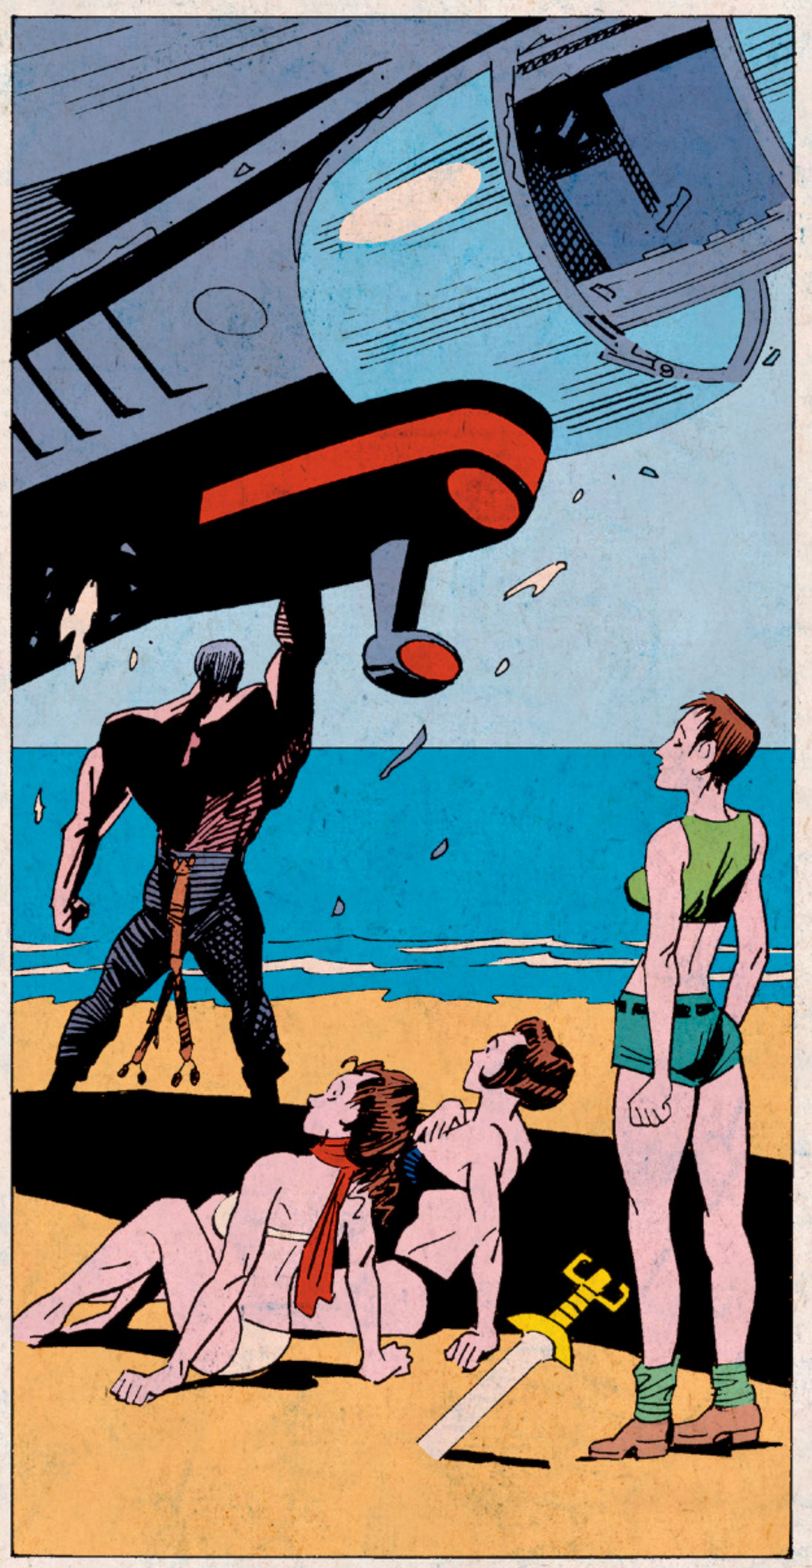
The Chicago Sunday Tribune

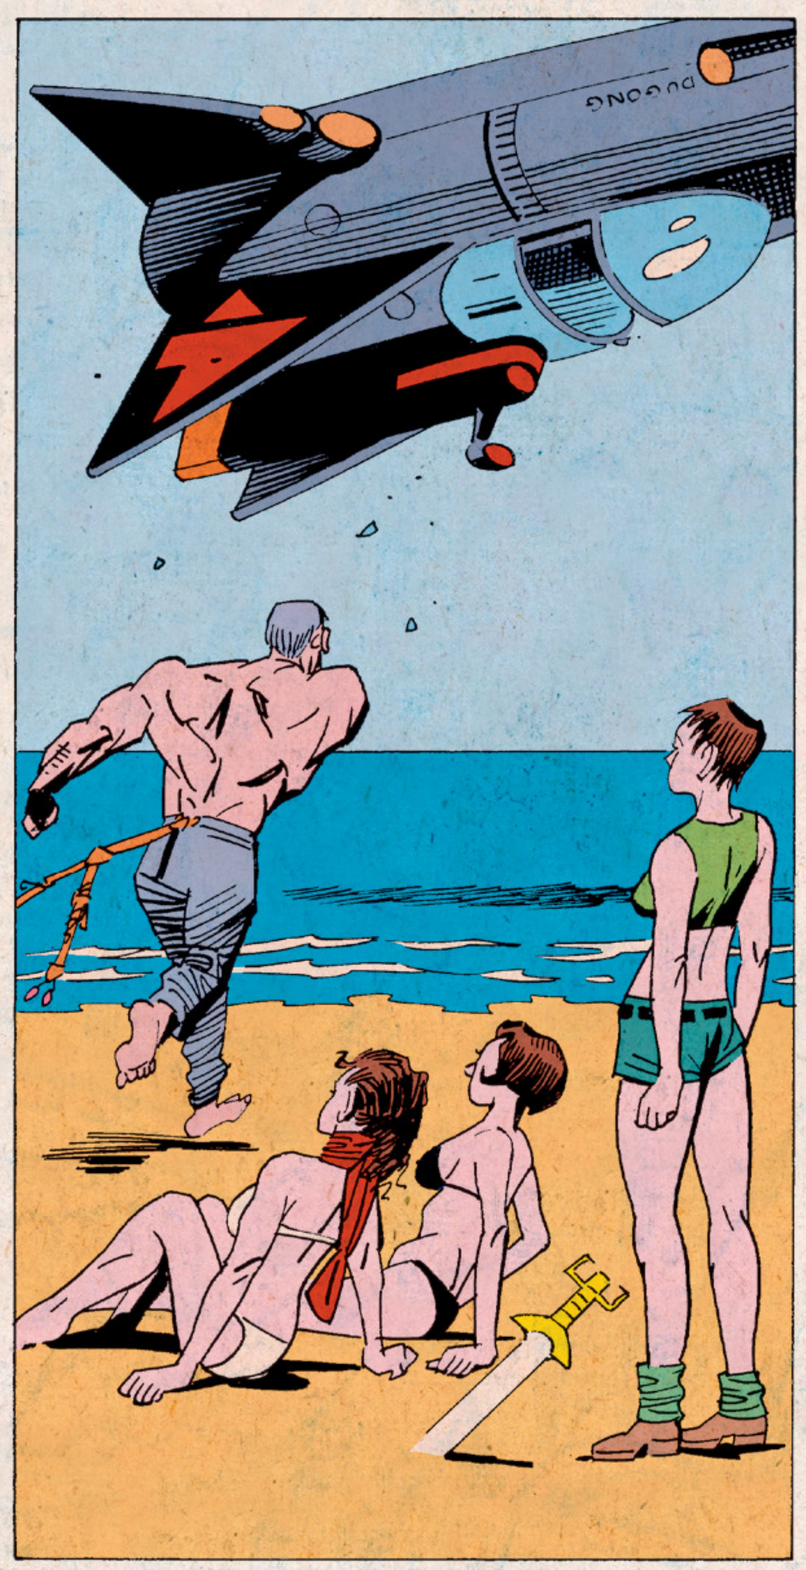
COMIC JANUARY 17, 2010 SUPPLEMENT.



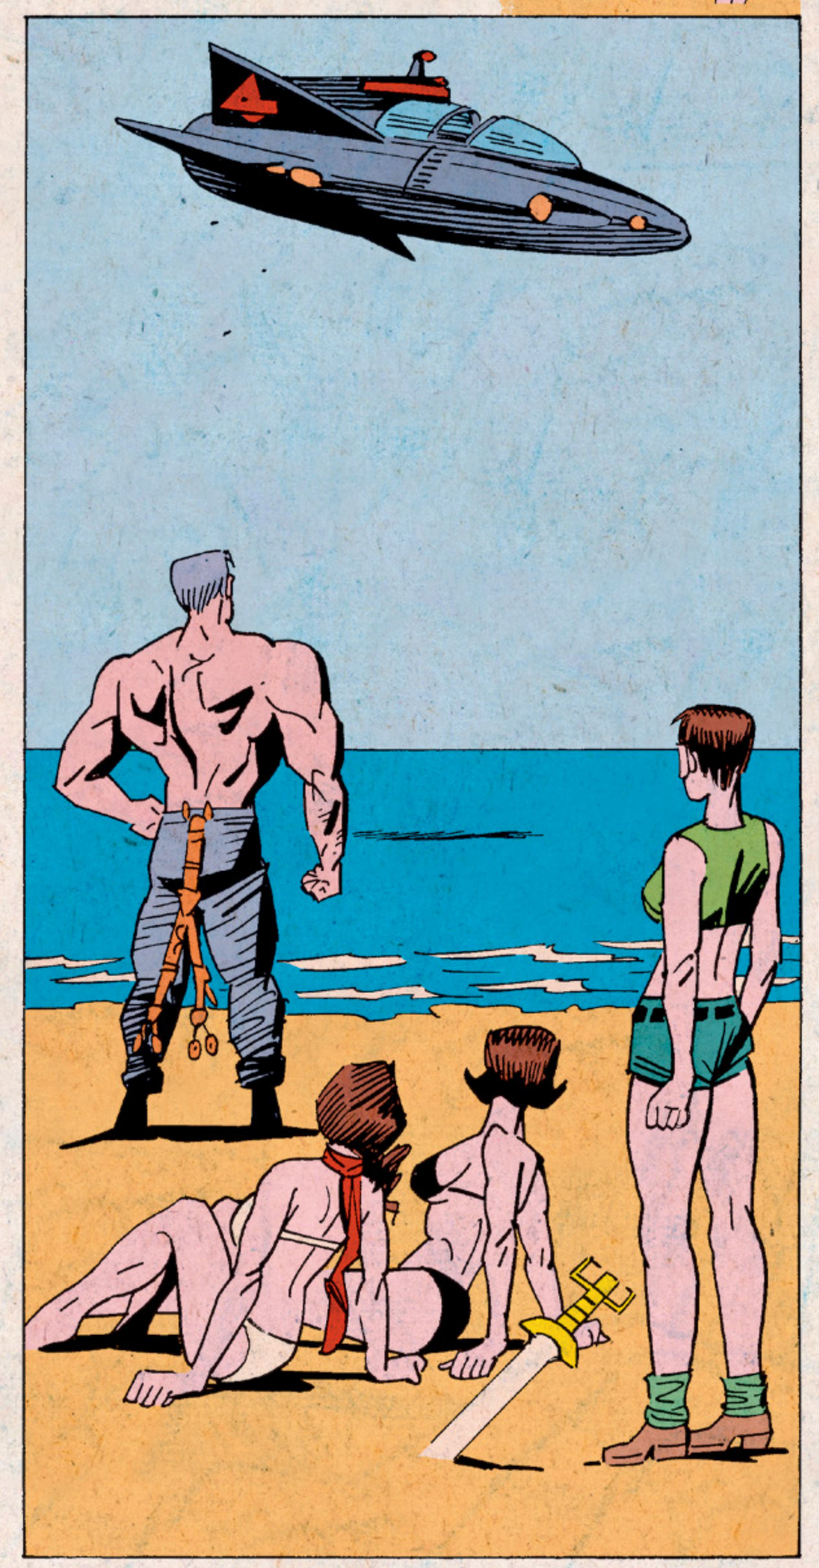
NOW, WASN'T THAT KIND OF HUGO HERCULES?



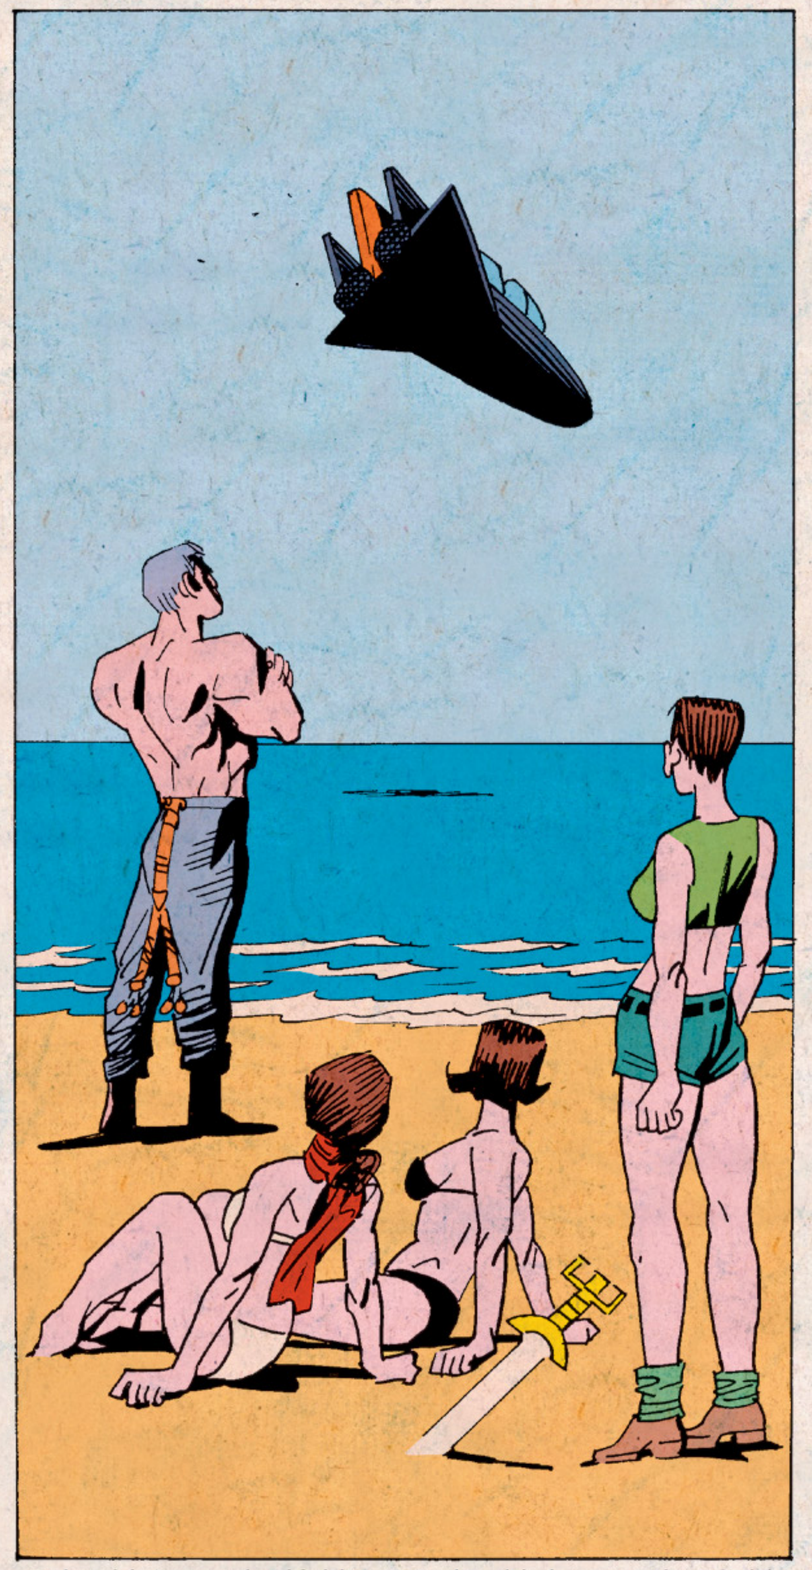
By the sunny seashore, Hugo Hercules has spied three bathing beauties. "Sure, now, I'll impress these colleens by liftin' their sailin'-dinghy, so I will," muses the genial quarter-divinity.



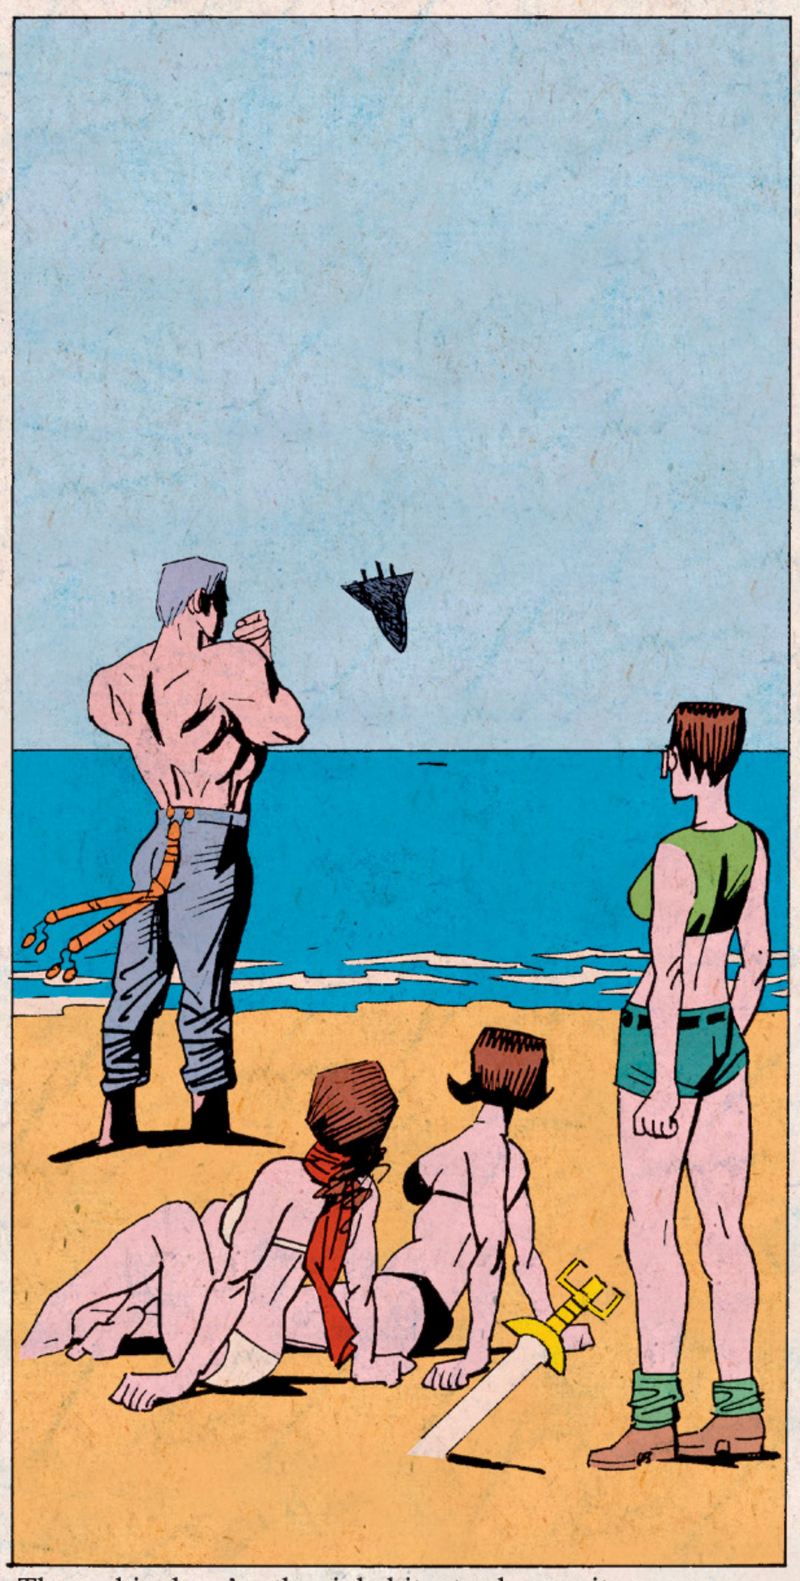
My goodness! Will you look at that, now! Hugo takes his generous gesture further by returning the young lovelies' vessel to its natural marine environment, setting their girlish hearts aflutter.



As if lighter than a feather, the precisely-engineered submersible sails through the cerulean South Pacific heavens. You can bet our Hugo has the skimpily-clad sirens' full attention now!



I shouldn't wonder if this muscular third-generation Celtic god-king makes these fillies' pulses race like stallions! Meanwhile, the precisely-engineered submersible sails through the cerulean South Pacific heavens.



The archipelago's other inhabitants observe its passage. Haciocram, isle of prophets, takes it for a portent of apocalypse as the precisely-engineered submersible sails through the cerulean South Pacific heavens.

World events take place at their accustomed pace and at last the precisely-engineered submersible sails no more through the cerulean South Pacific heavens. "Just as easy," quips our chum.

RIGHT. WE'VE ESTABLISHED YE'RE NOT GOIN' ANYWHERE, AND THAT YER MAGIC SWORD IS SHITE.

AT THE U.N., I'VE SOME FOOTAGE YOU SHOULD SEE.

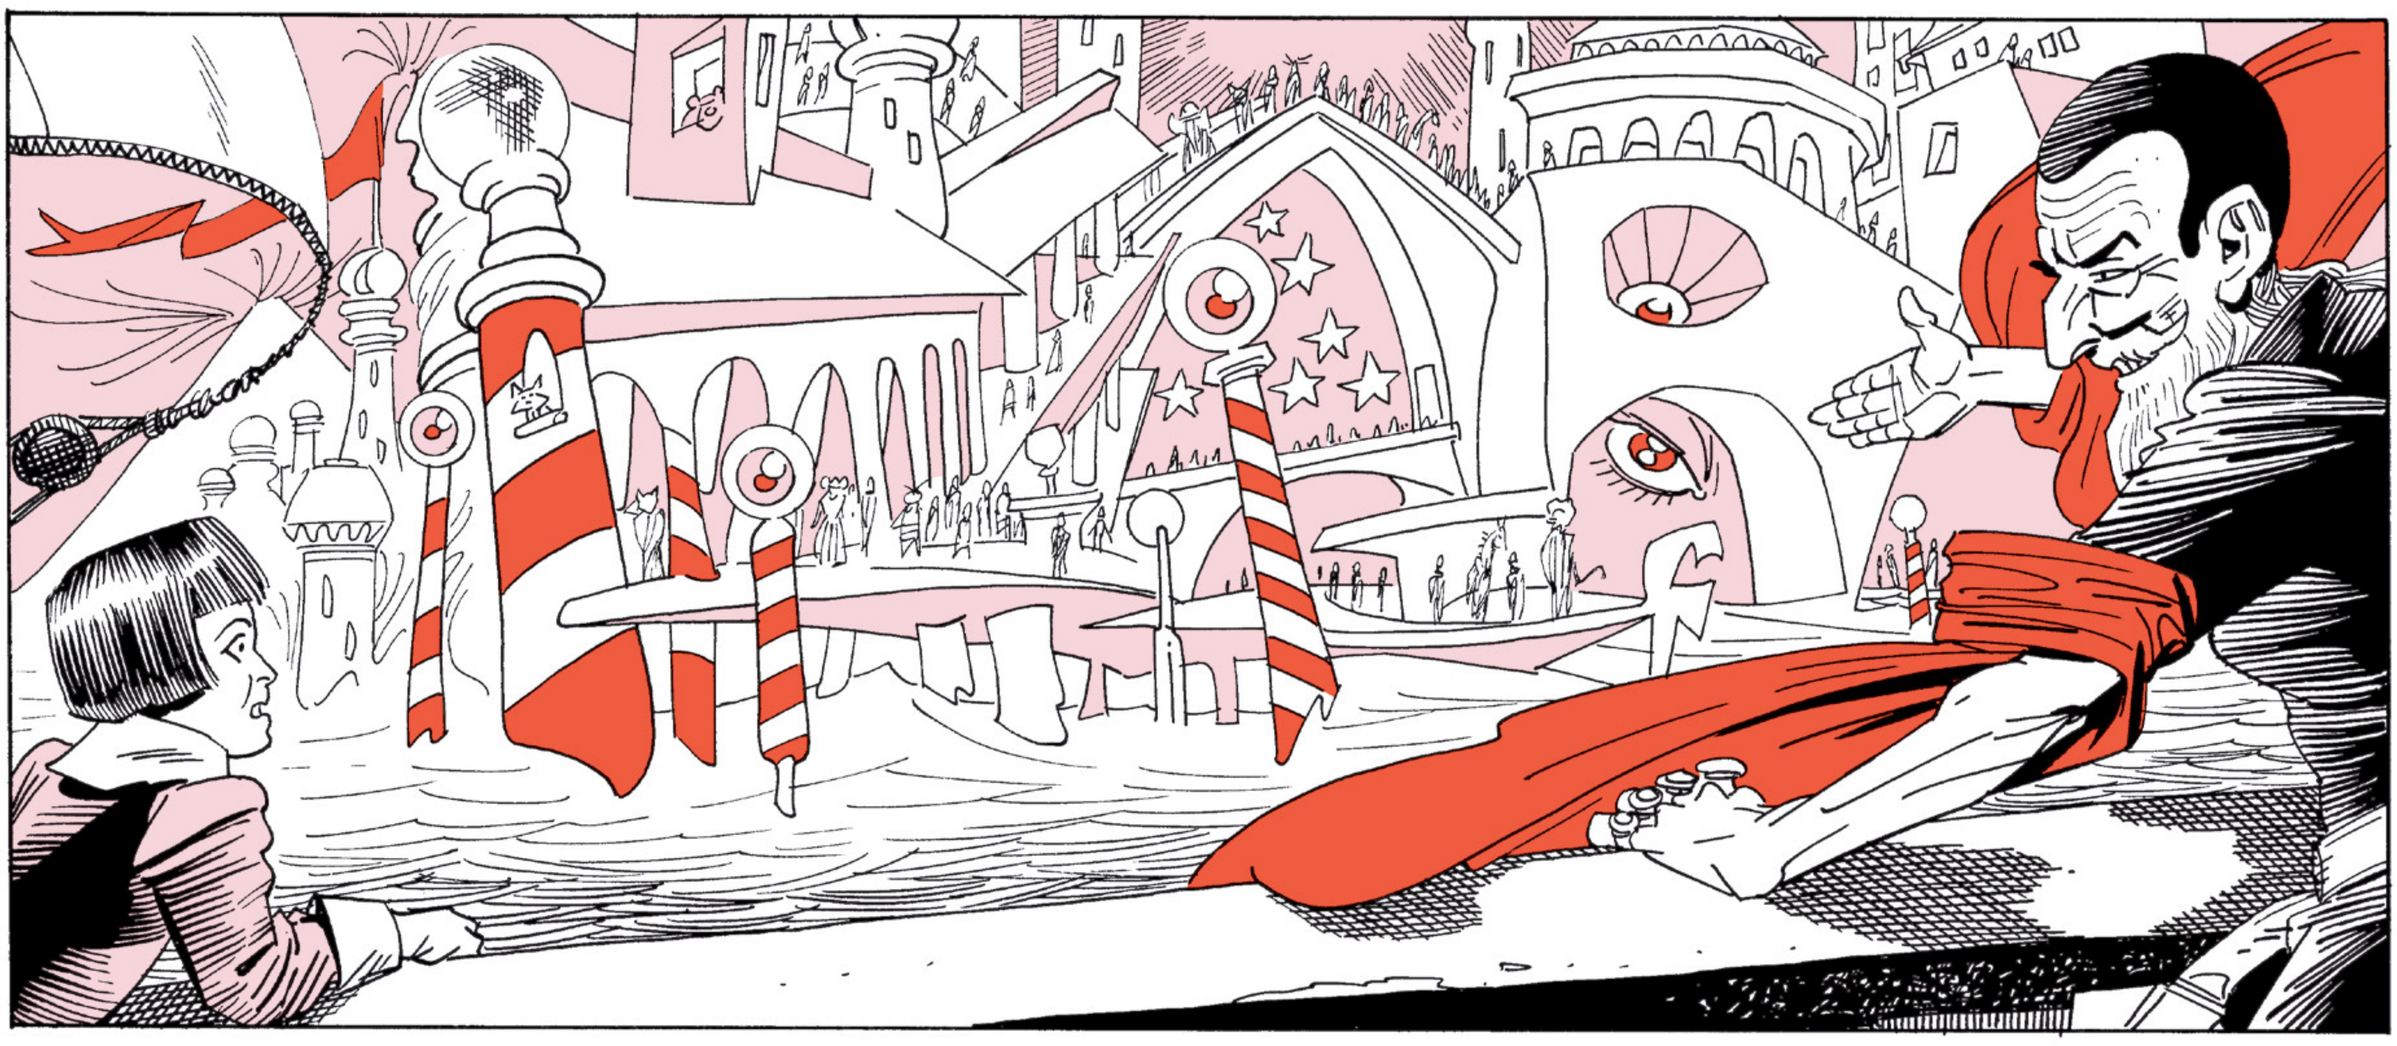
OUR CALLING'S BEEN COMPROMISED SINCE ITS SECRET ORIGINS.

Prospero's Men

Our comrades brave a North Atlantic gale where Prospero insisted they should sail,
And Captain Owemuch to Orlando says, "A wizard's transport very seldom pays."

On deck, Orlando finds his master there accompanied by sprites of Earth and Air.
Pointing astern, the warlock tells his squire,"Yonder's the destination I desire."



In disbelief the youthful changeling sees a shimmering mirage of onyx quays
Whence chimeras gaze down at those below. "Behold the Blazing World," purrs Prospero.

"Here fables live forever," claims the mage. "Fantasies who've escaped their printed page.
Like our friend Christian, vanished here before, where now I follow," smiles the conjuror.

Quixote, now, and Miss Amber St. Clair happen upon Orlando in despair.
He tells them "Prospero's deranged, I think, and plans to throw himself into the drink!"

Quixote swears he'll lance the ocean deep while Amber flirts to stay Prospero's leap,
But Caliban and Ariel disagree and help the Milanese into the sea.

Squire, concubine and knight exclaim in fear until a strange phenomenon's made clear:
Prospero and his creatures tread the brine as though upon an English lane's incline.

Unhurriedly amidst the storm and spray to visionary wharfs they make their way,
Where animal-head men guard, tirelessly, the sacred shores of the imagin'ry.

Upon that threshold Prospero looks back at his companions, saucer-eyed, jaws slack.
A solitary "Follow me" they hear before he and the vision disappear.

"Adios, companero," sighs the knight. Under her powder, Miss St. Clair turns white,
And young Orlando worries for his neck when Robert Owemuch hastens above deck.

"Where's Prospero? My fee's due," he complains, at which Orlando haltingly explains
The mystic portal where the problem lies. "Oh, fornicate my life," the captain cries.

"That shifty bastard's shafted me again!
See how magicians treat the working class

SEND IT TO THE STARS

We look forward to receiving your electronic mail! Send it here: tothestars@knockabout.com

Top o' the morning to all you tenacious troopers out there in TEMPEST Town! Al and Kev here! As you know, we're both dedicated military war-gaming enthusiasts, and just the other day as we were sitting around our oubliette office-space — arranging our adjutants, setting up our sergeants and playing with our privates — we thought we'd have a butcher's at our rusting readers' response box! Blow us down if we didn't find ourselves deluged by, literally, about four mirthful missives from all you sterling Seven Stars-scrutinisers out there! Let's see what you had to say for yourselves!

Dear Al and Kev: Like, I'm sure, many of your schoolboy readers, I have a perfectly healthy interest in the planet Mars. I subsist entirely on Mars Bars, and am continually humming the 'Mars — the War Bringer' section from Gustav Holst's The Planets. A bit like the red planet with its god of war, who is also called Mars, I have a very florid complexion, and quite often I attack people. My favourite member of the Seven Stars is, of course, Zom of the Zodiac. Ha-ha! Only joking. It's Marsman really. Zom is like a weird old tramp. Anyway, my question is, why doesn't Marsman fight My Favourite Martian from the American television show and TV21 comic strip My Favourite Martian (despite his name, My Favourite Martian is not my favourite Martian, my favourite Martian actually being 'Husky' from Space Patrol)? And my other question is, wouldn't Marsman be a more scientifically realistic Martian character if he used his mind-powers to make Satin Astro take her bra off? Yours,

Morris "Mars Mental" Mullins, Peterborough

Morris, our dear old Dutch, insofar as you are representative of our broader readership, you are the reason we drink. As any normal boy your age would surely tell you, the best planet is Uranus, because it sounds like "your anus". So the next time you find yourself thinking about Mars, take a tip from your trustworthy tutors Al and Kev, and investigate Uranus instead.

Dear Al and Kev: Would it be possible for your cut-price Picasso to pay attention to detail in his so-called artwork? In the first four pages of Seven Stars chapter one, "The Coming of the Seven Stars", Vull the Invisible is wearing headphones, but on page five, panels six and seven, no headphones are to be seen! Can you explain this oversight, or in future, Matron permitting, do I have to add headphones in crayon?
Richard Breezeblock-Dada, Sad View Hospital, Broadmoor

If we had a penny for every time we've been asked that question, Richard, we'd have eightpence. The answer is simply that if he wants, all of Vull's helmet has the capacity to go invisible. Very often, if he's just standing around talking because his powers are of little practical use, Vull will routinely test the invisibility of various parts of his costume, and that's what he was doing with his headphones in panels six and seven. He uses the same power on our artist's signature each issue, if that's any consolation. What puzzles us is what the headphones are for in the first place. We can see that the lightbulb would be handy for reading in bed, and can only imagine that Vull likes to listen to the Home Service while battling evil-doers. Go figure, as we might well say if we were really the Americans that we're pretending to be.

Dear Al and Kev: After reading the Seven Stars and greatly admiring the Flash Avenger, I have taken up smoking to improve my image with girls and to relax after my cross-country run. My family has a long history of respiratory illness, but my passion is to fight crime while smoking like a chimney! Yet as my legs buckle under me and I cough and wheeze like my old Aunt Consumpta I have to ask — what brand does he smoke? My Woodbines appear to impede my progress and I recently failed my school physical. I'm smoking as fast and as many as I can, but they are not working. Help, please!

Roger (former four-minute man) Balustrade, Oxford Grange, Catford

Roger, our old pal, our old beauty, we were so intrigued by your nicotine-stained note that we put the question to the Flash Avenger himself. He took a breath to answer and then suffered a coughing fit that lasted for forty-five minutes, during which time he got all mucous down his waistcoat, before finally managing to gasp, "Capstan Full Strength, doncha know?", and then having to go for a sit down. But the thing is that throughout this ordeal, even during that tense couple of minutes when the paramedics had given up the ghost, he came across as really suave and cool, and the female members of the emergency services were all over him.

Dear Al and Kev: I am presently living in the future and do not understand why Zom turned that nice Mr. Tyme into a jukebox! What is a jukebox? I'm guessing it's a box to keep jukes in, but I don't know what jukes are, and they may have gone extinct before the future century I was born in. P.S. — Mr. Tyme, please rescue me. 2018 is horrible!

Little Lord Fauntleroy, Manson Block, Croydon

Strike a light, your Little Lordship, your ghastly future dystopia where there are no jukes sounds like a right blinking kettle of fish, and no mistake! Our perky post-historic pal Satin Astro says that if you can just hold on for the next nine hundred or so years, through the rise of the killer machines, the incessant alien invasions and the brutal empires of the humanoid animals, then in the 30th century there's a relatively stable period of living in totalitarian domed cities governed by the tyrannical Lord of Mars. So at least that's something to look forward to.

Well, that's all of your ebullient epistles we've got room for this time, so until next month's temper-testing TEMPEST it's a sorrowful sayonara from your clearly hallucinating head honchos —

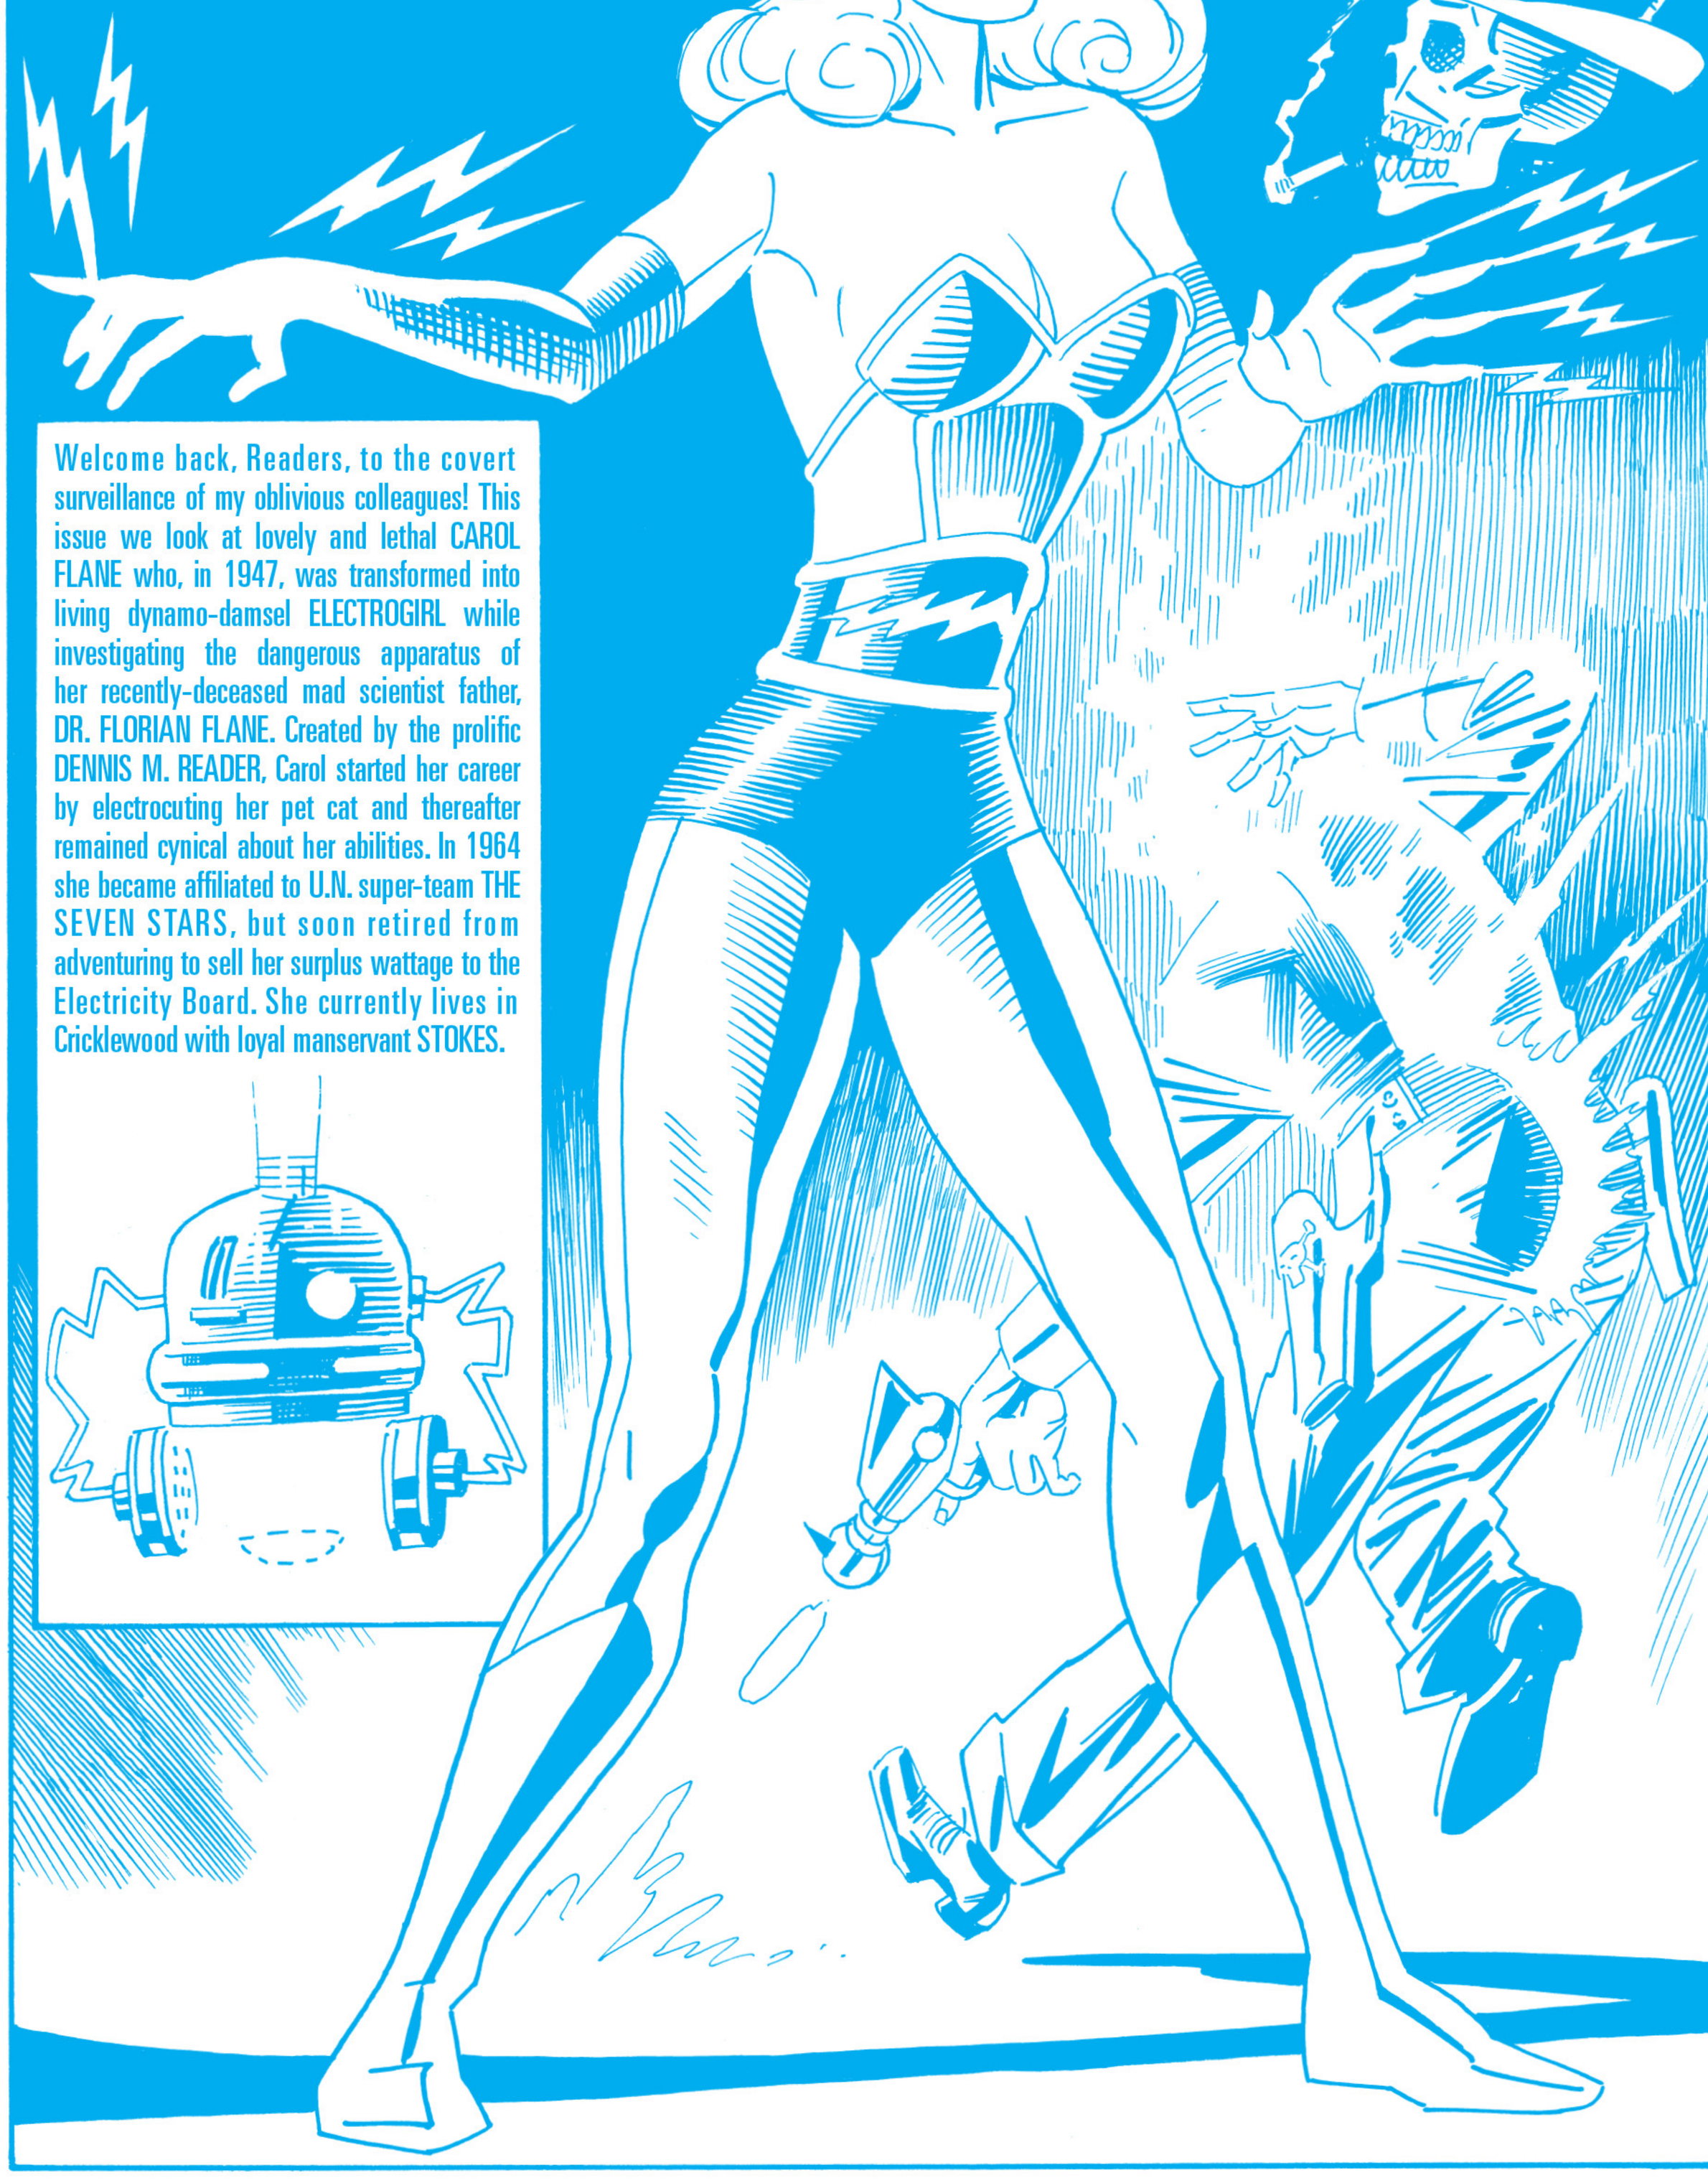
VULL'S VAULT OF VITAL STATISTICS No.2:

ELECTROGIRL

She's Drop Dead Gorgeous!



Welcome back, Readers, to the covert surveillance of my oblivious colleagues! This issue we look at lovely and lethal CAROL FLANE who, in 1947, was transformed into living dynamo-damsel ELECTROGIRL while investigating the dangerous apparatus of her recently-deceased mad scientist father, DR. FLORIAN FLANE. Created by the prolific DENNIS M. READER, Carol started her career by electrocuting her pet cat and thereafter remained cynical about her abilities. In 1964 she became affiliated to U.N. super-team THE SEVEN STARS, but soon retired from adventuring to sell her surplus wattage to the Electricity Board. She currently lives in Cricklewood with loyal manservant STOKES.

THE TEMPEST

A League LOOK-AND-LAMENT Feature: CHEATED CHAMPIONS OF YOUR CHILDHOOD

No. 3: MARIE DUVAL

Evening, all! Cartoon commissars Al and Kev here with a third serving of your textually tripped-out TEMPEST, which for some reason we've decided is an extinct British girls' picture weekly this issue. This had us in a proper two-and-eight trying to find a sole female creator in the annals of an industry traditionally dominated by lonely misogynists, until we tunnelled all the way back to the 19th century and unearthed the masterworks of the majestic Ms. Marie Duval!

Born to the poverty and clamour of Victorian London in 1847 as Isabella Emily Louisa Tessier, this energetic and enterprising talent, of whom no images are thought to exist and whose biographical details are ridiculously scant, began her stage career as Marie Duval, actor and performer with a promising side-line in cross-dressed leading men and principal boys. It was perhaps here that she commenced her relationship with playwright and stage manager Charles Ross – who was also a cartoonist, novelist and journal editor – and possibly through Ross that she became the popular-but-unsung cartoonist and illustrator whose work would usher in the world's first comic book.

Turning her lack of formal artistic training into an irrepressible try-anything advantage, Marie's bouncy slapstick images graced numerous cheap publications from the 1860s onward, most notably a Ross-edited rival to Punch magazine titled Judy, the London Serio-comic Journal. Here she channelled all the uproarious vulgar comedy of her music hall and theatre background into a cartoon style as captivating and experimental as any artist of her era, especially with her depiction of Ross-created archetypal workshy English drunk and early League cameo, Ally Sloper.

With her figures frequently turning to walking sticks, clothes-pegs or items of ironmongery, and with her occasional comic strips purportedly drawn by the inebriated and talentless Sloper himself, Marie contributed so much to the character's popularity that in 1884 he was awarded his own title, Ally Sloper's Half-Holiday, arguably the first ever publication that could be called a comic. Her brilliance resting in her contrast between the idealised world of polite society and the often-delinquent world that she and her readers were more familiar with, Marie Duval flourished at a time when the idea of visual storytelling was in its infancy. Using the comic page as a stage for her wildly inventive performances, she staked out a unique territory as a giant of the fledgling medium and was then, seemingly, all but erased from its history. Dying in 1890 at the age of 43, she lies in Wandsworth Cemetery under the inscription "And the music died and the laughter ceased and there was silence".

Flipping Heck! Well, if that doesn't convince all the genuinely talented women out there to avoid the comic business other than making our tea and enduring the corrosive verbal abuse that we regard as a harmless bit of fun, we don't know what blinking well will! We'll see you here next time for more sequential sob-stories and historic offences from your casually castigating comrades —

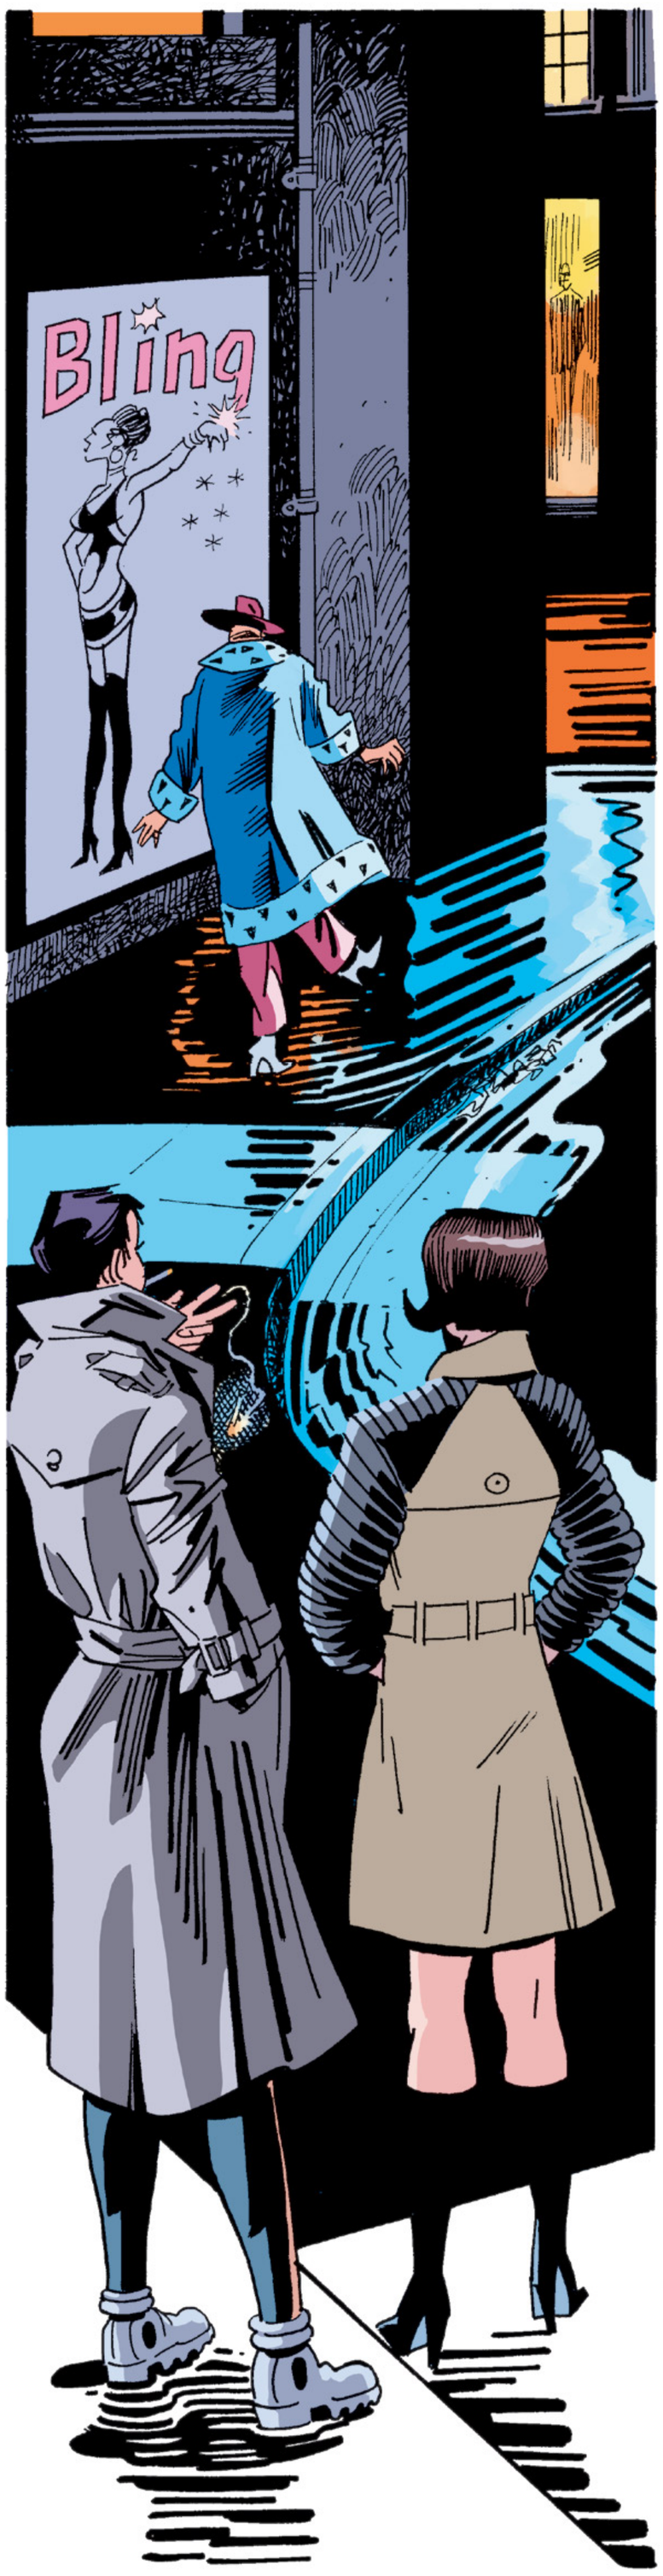
We found agent King, as I'd predicted, out for a nostalgic and morose stroll around Piccadilly Circus in the February rain with gaudy slugs of neon crawling on his patent leather shoes. "Why, Jason, darling, it's been simply ages," I announced convivially and watched the colour draining from his florid cheeks. He knew. He knew why I was there to talk to him and, huddled beneath Eros, wept in shame.

The very capable Orlando helped me march him to a nearby dive where we had previously bribed the owner, herding the unsteady and continually apologising operational director through the glistening London night. It all seemed rather desperate and brutal. Forty-something years back John and I would have done all of this by daylight in my Lotus or his Bentley, trading repartee and foiling some conspiracy involving brainwashing or robots.

We got King drunk and he told us everything – how the girls had been killed before his appointment; how when he'd found out he was too frightened to do anything. His nerves were shot, but then the Sixties were harrowing. I remember when we heard what had happened to Drake, or about David Callan executing his commanding officer. Agents back then, our lives were like paranoid and hallucinatory comic-strips.

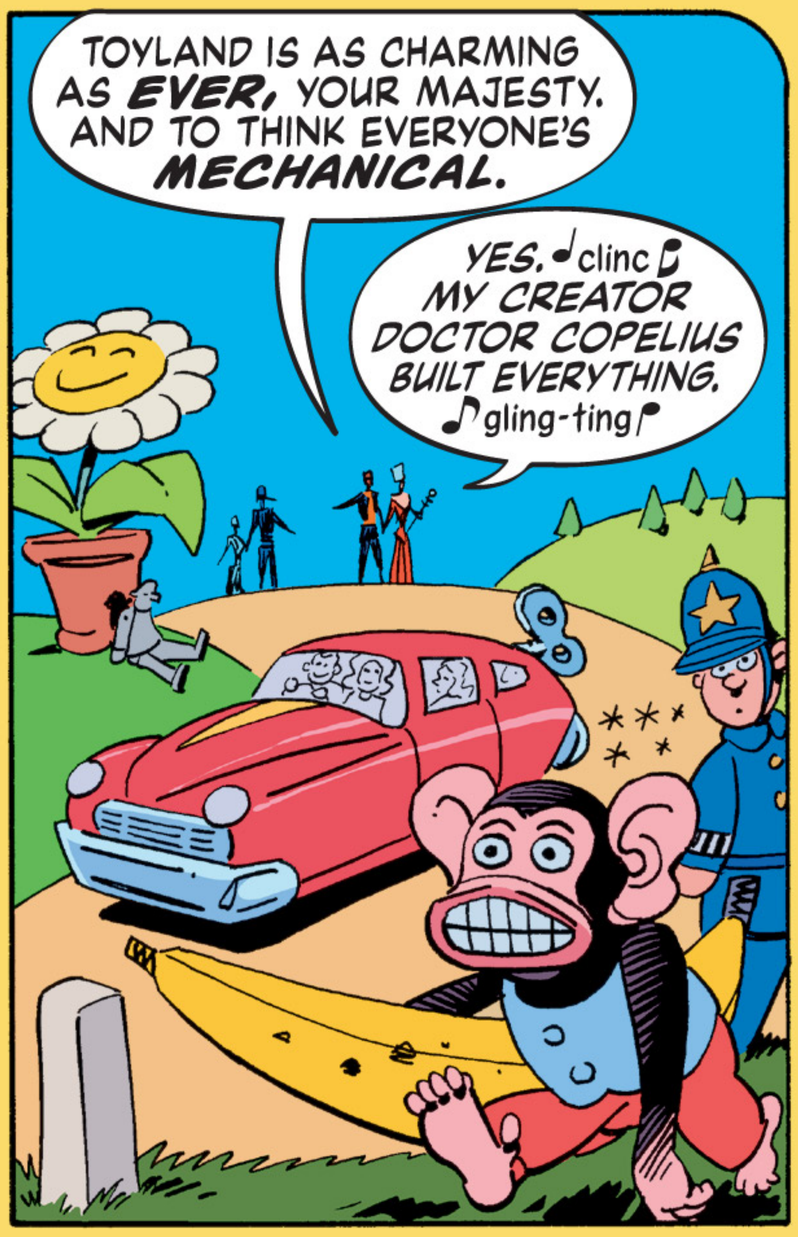
You could drown in a four-foot-wide monsoon, have whole communities vanish except for their milk-floats, or lose your mind in dead men's houses. No wonder so many of us ended up as anxious, flinching shadows like poor Mr. King. I told him what he had to do to make amends — he knew what for — and though he sobbed some more, he swore most solemnly he definitely would.

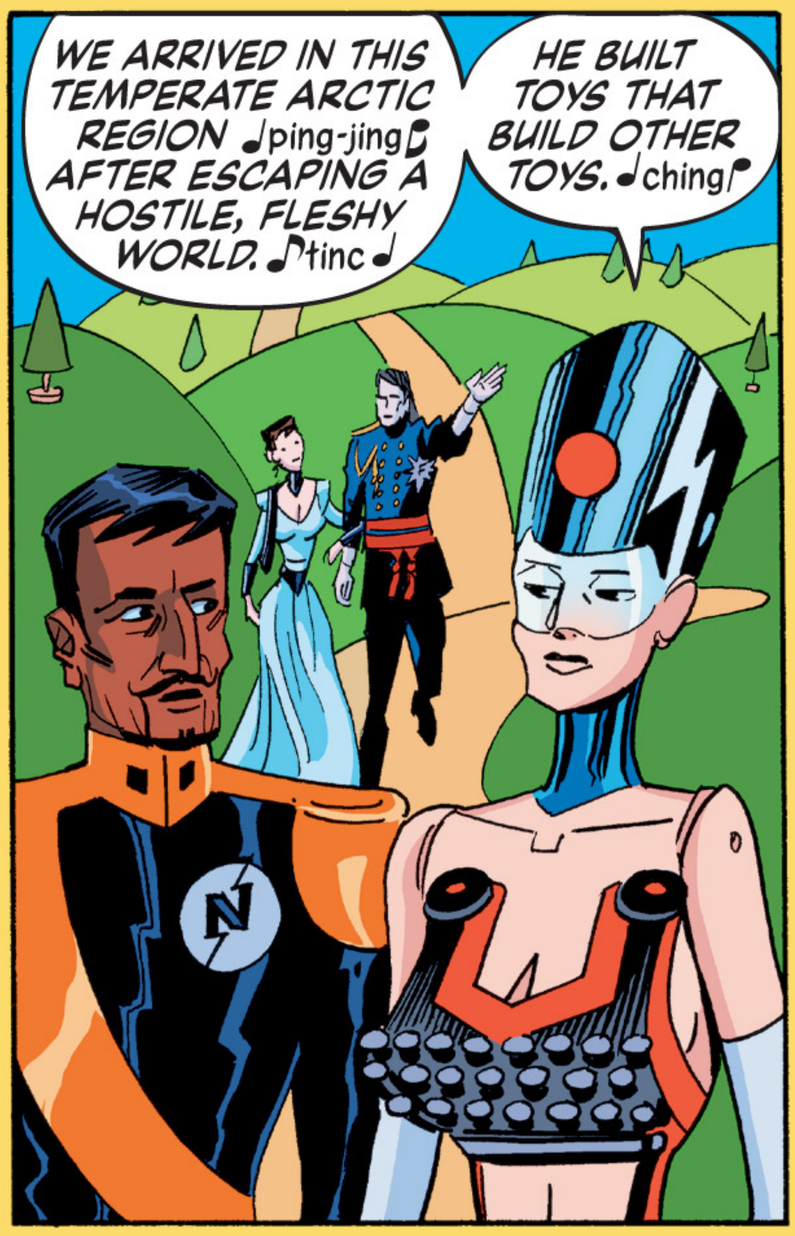


His fate thus decided, he couldn't shut up, babbling a great stream of intelligence in what I suppose was relief from the guilty hell he'd been living with. He mentioned proposed assaults on an Oxford college deanery or ruins in County Galway, and the imminent appearance of one Andrew Norton in Hackney. His confessional at last exhausted, the two of us watched him stumble away into this city's ancient darkness.

Sparing us a journey back to Kent, Orlando walked me to Fitzrovia and a subterranean complex linking Nightmore Street with Little Monmouth Street. Apparently, she, Mina and their late companion Allan Quatermain have made this their headquarters since the Sixties. She said I should feel at home amongst the other period pop memorabilia. Back then we were almost children, weren't we, at play in a decade like a marvellous nursery?

Just arrived in Toyland, Mina, Jack and their chums are given a splendid reception by Toyland's tinkle-voiced clockwork Queen Olympia and her consort, the gloomy old Duke of Frankenstein. The Pink Child frolics delightedly while the grownups chatter.





And what a lovely jamboree it is, in Olympia's palatial dollhouse where ambassadors from Polar Bear Kingdom and Cristal-lopolis waltz to the wind-up band, and Mina finds herself in a gavotte with the Queen's regal consort, Toyland's melancholy Duke.

THAT'S BETTER.

BERRY RIPPLE

TO RE-LEARN THE HORRIFYING ANSWER, DON'T FAIL TO READ CHAPTER FOUR OF OUR NOVEL-LENGTH SUPER-STORY!

We look forward to receiving your electronic mail! Send it here: tothestars@knockabout.com

How do, TEMPEST-taught titans of tomorrow! It's your dysfunctional demiurges Al and Kev here, our identities slowly crumbling under the weight of this over-involved parodic posturing to the point where we don't know our nationality, what year it is, or who we are. Luckily there's always the mountainous pile of less than six letters from you, our loyal if confabulated readers, to keep our feet firmly planted on the office junior. Let's have a gander at your laughably juvenile concerns!

Dear Al and Kev: Yesterday, while out scrumping for bananas, I chanced upon two old men burning a mountain of white cardboard. On closer inspection the cardboard was covered in words and drawings of Captain Universe, Marsman, Satin Astro and other members of the Seven Stars in what would seem to be their earlier adventures…what goes on? I thought the Seven Stars were real, but the old men said they were made up and I was an imbecile! Please tell me the Seven Stars are real, or my world will be nothing but a tissue of lies. P.S. Did Satin Astro receive my proposal of marriage? If so and she turns me down I shall have talcumed my privy parts for nought!

Napoleon Very Solo, Smallhampton

Napoleon, our handsome, you can put your clearly troubled mind at ease and rest assured that every member of the Seven Stars is 100% real! However, if you have even the most superficial understanding of publishing lead-times, with these first three letters-pages compiled at least a month before the first issue is available, you will realise that you yourself are obviously made up. And an imbecile.

Dear Al and Kev: As a pupil at Alfred Einstein Remedial School for Boys, I take considerable interest in science-related projects which may prove the hypothesis that comics contain a unified theory of monkey see – monkey do. My end-of-captivity composition will be on reality and the Seven Stars, and is well under way. Taking first the vexed question of how does Vull's invisibility really work, I took one 1920s motorcycle helmet, one radio valve (large), and added ancient crystal radio set headphones. Stripping naked to meet the invisibility halfway but wearing my Vull helmet, I plunged my sweat-soaked fingers into a handy electrical socket. In a hail of sparks and urine I was blasted across Gamages' TV and Radio department and landed in Ladies Underwear, my head and private places smouldering. Dazed but certain my experiment was a success, I wandered around watching shoppers look in horror at something behind me – a policeman, as it turned out. Collecting me later from Social Services, Mum and Dad forbade continuation of my research (I agreed but had scorched fingers crossed behind my back). Dad, while angry, did have to concede I had almost made myself disappear. I feel this latest experiment can tick off from my list both Vull the Invisible and Electrogirl. Furthermore, landing in a life-saving display of brassieres and suspender-belts has offered insights into Satin Astro and her gifts. Next week I will scale the Town Hall roof and scream GALAP until I'm sick, or change into a flying muscleman with an appetite for foundation garments.

Cecil Invisible-Velvet Cosmo Jones, Frockwit, Sunderland

Steady on, there, Cecil! As responsible adults who may also in some way be legally liable for your behaviour, both Al and Kev feel they should point out that your attempts to test the super-powers and origins of our captivating characters will almost certainly end in your physical demise, although we suppose you would then be able to tick Zom of the Zodiac from your list, except, of course, you wouldn't.

Dear Al and Kev: As a general practitioner, I write to congratulate your excellent magazine on the fact that none of the members of the Seven Stars are pretending to be doctors, with their ominous names increasing public anxiety about the medical profession. For example, you wouldn't want to receive your scan results from someone named Doom or Fate, much less Octopus. "Occult" suggests, at best, a homeopath, while the only reasonable response to "Strange" is "In what way?" A career in medicine is already fraught with difficulties, without bizarrely-named costumed characters eroding public confidence and making us all sound like cackling lunatics. Again, thank you. Sincerely yours,

Dr. Keith Destruction, Hartlepool

Well, Doc, it's always nice to know that the Quack community appreciates our efforts. Although in fairness, we should point out that we also received an angry missive questioning Captain Universe's military background from a commissioned officer named Brian Astonishing, but, as with all critical letters, we decided not to print it.

Dear Al and Kev: Even though it contains no smutty references to Satin Astro and doesn't make your readership appear to be borderline psychotics who cannot differentiate between comics and reality, I wonder if you could answer my question: given that the Seven Stars story appears to be an issue-length six-part narrative, is it even remotely credible that there would be a letters page after every instalment? Also, since we've been previously informed that this is the only Seven Stars adventure, I'm wondering why us readers are apparently so familiar with the team. Just thought I'd ask.

Terry Ferry, Derry

Strike a light! Is it really roughly a thousand words already? Well, chums, it looks like that's all we've got room for this issue! Join us here next time for more clearly constructed conversation with your obfuscating overlords –

VULL'S VAULT OF VITAL STATISTICS No.3:

THE FLASH AVENGER

The Soho Spirit!

Welcome, fact-fans, to more of my illicit data-harvesting! This time we're investigating DAVID GAUNT, a standard issue wealthy playboy who decided in 1951 to flaunt his superiority over both the criminal and working classes as THE FLASH AVENGER. Most probably created by union organiser JOHN "JOCK" McCAIL, the Avenger had a lively career in DYNAMIC THRILLS COMICS, during which time he met and married MICK ANGLO'S girl wonder GAIL GARRITY, with whom he fathered a son, HENRY. Briefly affiliated with United Nations super-team THE SEVEN STARS, David Gaunt died of lung cancer in 1968 and is interred in Highgate Cemetery.

A League LOOK-AND-LAMENT Feature: CHEATED CHAMPIONS OF YOUR CHILDHOOD

No. 4: KEN REID

Wotcher, mates, and welcome to the fourth foray of our tortuous TEMPEST, from your Big Apple/Bermondsey barrow-boys, Al and Kev. When we're not seeking therapy for our faux-American personality disorders we're eagerly excavating mishandled maestros of the medium to belatedly bewail, and what better subject for this Odhams Press-inspired issue than Britain's most majestic mad genius, the unforgettable Ken Reid?

Born 1919 in Manchester, Ken's childhood confinement with a tubercular hip became an opportunity for him to practice drawing. Granted a scholarship to Salford Art School at age fourteen, he was expelled four years later for refusing to apologise over a truancy episode and set up his own wildly unsuccessful commercial art studio in 1936 while still a teenager. Helped by his forceful father, by 1938 he'd landed a three-panel comic strip in Manchester's Evening News, the enduringly beautiful and riotously imaginative 'Adventures of Fudge the Elf.'

This was suspended in 1941 until 1946, when Ken was demobilised into bombed and bereaved post-war Britain where the emerging deranged humour of radio's The Goon Show — perhaps a symptom of nationwide Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder — would infuse Reid's work with a distinctive gibbering mania. Working briefly for then-dominant Amalgamated Press, in 1953 he was snapped up by Amalgamated's up-and-coming rivals, Dundee publisher D.C. Thomson where, working alongside giants like Leo Baxendale, Paddy Brennan and Davy Law he created such memorable strips as 'Rodger the Dodger,' 'Angel Face' and Reid's personal favourite, the maritime menace 'Jonah.' In 1964, urged on by Leo Baxendale, Ken sought a better-paying berth with Thomson's new London-based competitor, Odhams Press.

By now an exquisitely polished cartoonist, for Odhams he crafted gems like 'Frankie Stein,' 'Jasper the Grasper,' and the magnificent 'Queen of the Seas.' In 'The Nervs' he recounted the exploits of an obese schoolboy's intestinal fauna, while his 'Dare-a-Day Davey' contained a bizarre unofficial crossover with Marvel's Nick Fury and an unpublished episode so demented it was only rescued from an Odhams bonfire by the late Steve Moore. This is perhaps where Ken's completely undeserved reputation for covert obscenity commenced amongst the squeamish and trepid editorial staff at Fleetway/IPC who absorbed Odhams in 1969. While he went on to produce many superb strips for IPC, including 'Faceache' in Buster and 'Creepy Creations' in Shiver & Shake, the Sixties had taken their toll: a difficult marriage and ECT treatment after a nervous breakdown were reflected in Reid's characters of the period, forever anxious, perspiring and swallowing 'nerve pills.' After an altercation with a mentally ill neighbour in 1987, Reid suffered a fatal stroke while halfway through a page of 'Faceache' at his home in Pendlebury. The page was finished by a house artist and published without a word of explanation. A unique comic visionary was gone, owning nothing save Fudge the Elf.

Flippin' Ada! Excuse us while we blow our noses and pull ourselves together. Join us here next time for another regretful rendezvous with your amiable if accusatory archdeacons —

IT'S A BIG PUZZLE! AND WHAT ARE THESE FAIRIES DOING?

THAT IS A FIGHTER FORMATION, BY GOSH.

THERE'S A MILLION FAIRIES HERE, I'LL BET!

YES. AND MIGHTY PEPPED-UP ABOUT SOMETHING, WHEN YESTERDAY THEY GOT KILLED.

THEY ARE CELEBRATING, MAYBE! THESE HANDBILLS WILL TELL US, I GUESS.

OH! YOU ARE RIGHT. AT THE NEW GLOBE THEATRE THERE IS A PLAY.

IT IS BY SHAKESPEARE, TOO.

THIS MUST BE THAT THEATRE HERE!

GEE! WE'RE AT THE PREMIERE OF "FAERIE'S FORTUNES FOUNDED." THIS IS TOPS.

THIS DOES NOT LOOK LIKE THE OLD GLOBE THEATRE. NO SIR.

NO! THE SILLY FAIRIES ARE THINKING OF A DIFFERENT GLOBE, SURE.

HOW JOLLY. IT'S LIKE BEING BACK IN LONDON.

HUSH.

HUSH. THE CURTAIN'S RISING!

THE ADVENTURES OF JERRY CORNELIUS

HAGGERSTON PARK, HACKNEY, DAWN, FEBRUARY FIRST, 2010.

JERRY HOSTS AN INFORMAL GATHERING.

MORNING. ORLANDO, ISN'T IT? WEAPONISED GENDER FLUIDITY. YOU SHOULD MEET JERRY.

OH, WE'VE MET, 1969. SHE WAS MALE, I WAS YOUNG, GIFTED, AND BLACK.

WHO'S YOUR FRIEND?

HIM? HE'S THE VEGETATIVE BUDDHA. HERE FOR YEARS; IMMOBILE; ANCHORING LONDON.

NOW HE'S VANISHING. THE CITY'S SUFFERING FROM ENTROPIC DRIFT.

SO... YOU'RE SAYING LONDON'S IN DANGER?

NO. I'M SAYING LONDON'S OVER. NARRATIVE COLLAPSE. A SHARD IN THE HEART.

HEAT-DEATH BEFORE DISHONOUR, EH?

HMM. I SUPPOSE THINGS DO FEEL SORT OF TERMINAL.

HOW SO?

WELL, THE REJUVENATED BASTARD RUNNING M.I.5 IS NUKING EVERYWHERE ASSOCIATED WITH US.

WE'RE ASSASSINATING HIM THIS AFTERNOON, AND YOU'VE GIVEN US USEFUL ADVICE BEFORE.

USEFUL ADVICE? GET OUT, WHILE THERE'S STILL SOMETHING TO GET OUT OF.

TAFFY HERE'S UPPING STUMPS FOR A TASTIER WORLD.

LEAVING? BUT YOU'RE NORTON, PRISONER OF LONDON.

NO LONGER. THE CITY'S STAGING ITS OWN DISAPPEARANCE. I'VE OUTLIVED MY PRISON.

FRANKLY, THIS IS ALL BARONESS BRUNNER'S FAULT.

WHAT, MARGARET BRUNNER? THE FORMER PRIME MINISTER?

THE WIDOW. SHE SOLD THE WHOLE SHOW DOWNRIVER.
WHEN DOROTHY PERKINS BOUGHT DERRY AND TOM'S, YOU COULD SEE IT COMING.
SO WHERE WILL YOU TWO GO NOW?
HASTINGS: RESURRECT HAROLD; MAKE THE NORMAN INVASION BEST OUT OF THREE.
PERSONALLY, I'M HEADING FOR THE SANCTUARY, JUST OFF FLEET STREET.
"SANCTUARY"? IS THAT A CLUB?
NO. PART OF THE BRIDE LANE VORTEX. DIDN'T IT USED TO BE TANELORN?
IT'S A STOCKADE FOR MADE-UP PEOPLE. YOU'D DIG IT.
SORRY. OTHER ARRANGEMENTS.
OH, YES. YOUR ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT. GOOD LUCK WITH THAT.
HERE, WHY DON'T YOU TAKE MY NEEDLE GUN? SHAKEY MO COLLIER CAN GET ME ANOTHER.
IS IT RELIABLE?
ONLY THE BEST, FROM THE ENGLISH ASSASSIN. A DYING ART, WITH...
AH. HE'S GONE.
MM. TAKING THE GREAT WEN WITH HIM.
THAT'S IT, THEN? EVERYTHING'S FINISHED?
NO. JUST EVERYTHING YOU RECOGNISED. EXIT THROUGH THE GIFT SHOP.
WILL YOU BE ALL RIGHT?
APPARENTLY NOT. STILL, I'LL HAVE SEEN LONDON BEGIN AND END.
TAKE CARE.
ALWAYS, DARLIN'.

The NEW GLOBE THEATRE presents

Færie's Fortunes Founded

by William Shakespeare

Comedie Tragedie

Come, bring your squire. Step with us through these gates to venture on Her presence, half-divine, and scrye there vasty empires' secret fates.

Let our talks be unknown, Our words erase: in Nonsuch Palace, none such did take place.

THAT'S ORLANDO AND PROSPERO, TAKEN TO QUEEN GLORIANA BY SPY-CHIEF JACK WILTON AND BASILDON BOND.

A YOUTHFUL PROSPERO. INTERESTING.

It seems like bosoms, or a brace of noughts; two O's within a seven bracketted.

Then two O's and a seven is your sign, and to this mark are all your payments writ.

SO...THAT WAS PROSPERO'S CODE-NUMBER ORIGINALLY? THAT'S AN ODD COINCIDENCE.

HMM. AS A STRATEGIST, I HAVE LEARNED TO MISTRUST COINCIDENCES.

The mariner, bedraggled and in debt, your spirits and yourselves, not to forget the courtesan, nor sweet deluded knight—

Nor pilgrim with his bundle knotted, furled, that shall precede you to a Blazing World.

Most lovely Queen, I am confounded quite...

NOW GLORIANA'S ASSEMBLING PROSPERO'S MEN...

...FORE-RUNNERS OF MY OWN GROUP.

SHE WAS CERTAINLY PRESCIENT. DIDN'T THIS HAPPEN IN 1558?

...hardly knew themselves at all, and thus may willingly act Faerie's PLAN.

How would thy mother, lushly-fingered Anne, or thy great-uncle Oberon rejoice to know thy scheme—

Know that thy cunning choice gifts Faerie's wish since history began?

THAT'S UNSETTLING: WITH ORLANDO AND PROSPERO DISMISSED, THE FAIRIES ARE DISCUSSING PLANS.

LONG-TERM PLANS BY THE SOUND OF IT.

...a Blazing World, door to a different plane. There Prospero goes, nor shall his League remain, but in time follow to another state.

'Til when the years have in their hundreds passed, 'Til other men else women lead my band...

"ELSE WOMEN"? J-JACK, SHE'S TALKING ABOUT ME. S-SOMETHING'S WRONG HERE.

I FEEL THE SAME WAY. LET'S REJOIN PROSPERO AND OUR COMPANIONS.

...and in this Blazing World shall take their stand, a bridge-head 'tween our worlds secured at last.

Now sleep, there are dark days to come e'er then, our bright kind scourged by new kings and their men...

...burn'd out from woodland, driven off from fen...

...and would I know dream's moonlit towns again.

JACK, SOMETHING'S WRONG. THE BLAZING WORLD'S BEEN VAPORISED AND PAINFULLY RESURRECTED. WHY IS IT CELEBRATING?

INDEED. AND WHY WITH A DRAMA FORETELLING FAIRYLAND'S PURGING FROM 17th-CENTURY ENGLAND?

ALTHOUGH SINCE RELOCATING HERE, FAERIE'S EVIDENTLY THRIVING.

Y-YOU'RE RIGHT. THIS VISIT, THERE'S PROBABLY MORE FAERIE THAN ANIMAL PEOPLE.

AND THEY ALL SEEM SO PURPOSEFUL, AS IF THEY'RE PREPARING FOR SOMETHING TERRIBLY IMPORTANT.

DO YOU THINK SO? THIS GROUP HERE SEEMS FAMILIAR FROM SOMEWHERE, PERHAPS A CHILDREN'S BOOK ILLUSTRATION, OR A PAINTING I'VE SEEN.

BUT THE ATMOSPHERE... IT ISN'T CHARMING, IT'S TERRIFYING, THOUGH HARD TO LOOK AWAY FROM.

I SEE WHAT YOU MEAN. IT LOOKS LIKE THEY'RE FISHING FOR SOMETHING.

JACK, THAT PLAY... COULD GLORIANA HAVE PLANNED ME, FOUR CENTURIES AGO?

CONCEIVABLY, BUT TO WHAT END?

I DON'T KNOW. SOME CONTINGENCY PLAN, TO COUNTERACT FAERIE'S BANISHING, OR...

UGGH! THOSE AREN'T FAIRIES. I THINK THEY'RE LLOIGOR.

ASSUREDLY... BUT WHY ARE THEY IN THE BLAZING WORLD?

W-WE SAW THEM HERE IN 1958, WHEN ALLAN OFFENDED THEM. WE'D HAD SEVERAL UNPLEASANT ENCOUNTERS OVER THE YEARS...

THEN ARE THEY ALLIES OF PROSPERO, WHOSE PALACE WE APPROACH?

I HOPE NOT. THEY'RE MALIGNANT HYPER-SPACIAL HORRORS. IF THEY'RE ALIGNED WITH PROSPERO, AND HE'S ALIGNED WITH FAERIE...

BUT WHAT CONCEIVABLE COMMON GOAL COULD UNITE SUCH DIVERSE FACTIONS?

YOU'RE RIGHT. THE IDEA'S RIDICULOUS. I'M JUST RATTLED BY THAT PLAY!

APPARENTLY. BLAZING WORLD GEOGRAPHY SHIFTS AROUND SO.

We look forward to receiving your electronic mail! Send it here: tothestars@knockabout.com

Salutations to all you stylistically shipwrecked sailors tumbling in the tides of our torrential TEMPEST! It's your swiftly-sinking subalterns Al and Kev again, barely able to move in our under-the-stairs office space for the mailbags bursting with four or five brief comments from our flagrantly fabricated fan-base! Let's make out we're mulling through your mostly made-up missives and see what we had to say for yourselves!

Dear Al and Kev: Why don't you make Captain Universe more human and approachable by giving him a pet dog called Universe Dog? Universe Dog could be an ordinary dog chosen to receive special powers by a ghostly group of scientifically important dogs whose initials spell the word GALAP. You could use deceased Russian space-dog Laika to provide the 'L', while the 'P' could stand for Pickles, the dog that found the World Cup. I know he isn't scientific, strictly speaking, but he must have been good at finding things, so that's a power. Anyway, once you'd come up with science-dogs for the other three letters, you could have the mild-mannered and short-sighted ordinary dog speak the word and become Universe Dog, the Super-Marvel King of the Dog Spaceways. Except, thinking about it, dogs can't speak. I suppose I've answered my own question, haven't I?

Tyson Sheba, Isle of Dogs

Yes, Tyson. Yes, you have.

Dear Al and Kev: "An ice cream-fuelled teenager whose power must presumably be diabetes." Who is this sweet-toothed individual? I must know immediately!

Siiri Cressey, Yahoo-on-Thames

Siiri – our first, our last, our everything – your letter shocked us so much that we haven't seen our eyebrows for a week. This is because we deduced that since you don't appear to have anything psychologically wrong with you, and since you don't have a ridiculous name like 'Montgomery Shuttlecock' or something, you are probably a real person rather than somebody we've imagined, and, furthermore, you might very well be a girl! Not only that, but your heart-warming response to Tommy Walls and his inadvisable diet has convinced us that with this plucky and loveable character we may have at last found a way to connect with the female readership that have for so long both eluded and despised us. All of which makes it a bit depressing that we're killing him off next issue, although you'll be relieved to learn that it's nothing to do with his cholesterol levels, and he just gets smothered by a monster.

Dear Al and Kev: I love everything about your comic, except why doesn't Marsman wear a proper costume instead of just swimming trunks and his Y-fronts on his head? He always looks like he's making his way home drunk from a stag party. No wonder he can't stop blushing. Anyway, what I like best about your comic is the letters page, and especially all of the reassuringly sensible and noble names of your other readers, so very like my own. At school I am picked on by ignoramuses who say that my name is "bizarre," "made-up sounding," or, that most hated of taunts, "ridiculous." Your letters page is my only sanctuary in an otherwise difficult life, and only when I am reading it do I feel that I am surrounded by people like me, who will accept me for what I am and not dismiss me as ridiculous purely on account of my name. Please, please never let me down. Your vulnerable admirer,

Montgomery Shuttlecock, Burton-on-Trent.

Ah. Right. Montgomery, our old mucker, owing to an unfortunate outcome of the way in which we compile our letters pages, we're afraid that this is a bit awkward. All we can suggest is that while sticks and stones can break your bones, names can never hurt you. Although, obviously, people armed with sticks and stones who think your name is stupid definitely can.

Dear Al and Kev: For my birthday, Dad gave me a deluxe H.C. Edwards Bakelite time-telescope from your advertising pages, even though we've already lost family members thanks to the polythene bag diving helmet and the abandoned refrigerator clubhouse stickers. Well, I think my time-telescope is a swiz. It arrived with a strip of historic slides and do-it-yourself instructions! I converted it using the Interocitor in Dad's garden shed but I think I busted it, because when I looked into my own future I just saw a fat, bald man in Doctor Who pyjamas, and me Aunt Vivian had a nose ring and a Union Jack tattoo on her face. Some joke! We all know the future will be silver togas, jetpacks and caravan parks on the moon. Frankly, if my younger brother's forthcoming bank robbery utilising the I-Can't-Believe-It's-Not-A-Luger goes wrong in any way, my family are seriously considering not basing major lifestyle decisions on novelty items purchased from a children's comic. Yours disappointedly,

Jimmy Magicpatch, Much Gawping-in-the-Hedge

Jimmy, our old rugged cross, we've spoken to Mr. Edwards and he says that he'd like to give you and your family a full refund for any goods which you found less than satisfactory. But he can't. He's in prison.

Dear Al and Kev: Given that the Seven Stars all appear to have been published by different companies, isn't it unlikely that such a group could ever have existed? I'm just saying. Yours,

Heston Weston, Preston

Flaming Nora! We've just remembered that we've left the motor parked on double yellows! Join us in issue five of your terrifically trying TEMPEST for another sobering summit with your malfunctioning mystagogs —

Al and Kev

VULL'S VAULT OF VITAL STATISTICS No. 4:

MARSMAN

The Battler from Barsoom!

Greetings, gossip-gatherers! Vull here with more creepy coverage of my colleagues, focussing this time on interplanetary immigrant GARATH GANZZ. Sent to Earth as a Martian intelligence agent in 1948, arriving during England's oppressive Big Brother regime, and eventually relocating to Bigburg, near Cactusville in Texas, MARSMAN was a one-issue wonder from the prestigious pen of PADDY BRENNAN. Returning to Britain in 1958, Marsman served briefly in U.N. super-team THE SEVEN STARS during 1964 before once more going on the run with teammate SATIN ASTRO. It is not currently known whether he ever returned to the red planet of his origins.

No. 5: DENIS McLOUGHLIN

'Ello, our darlin's! It's your comic-book commodores Al and Kev here, accents wandering from Dallas to Dagenham as we invite you to a fifth fandango with our terpsichorean TEMPEST! This issue, since we're posing as a British reprint of pre-code American crime and horror comics, what better victimised valiant to venerate than England's Wild West-worshipping nabob of noir, Denis McLoughlin?

A self-described sickly child, Denis McLoughlin was born in Bolton, 1918, and lived there all his life. Winning a scholarship to art school aged fourteen, he quickly secured employment at an advertising agency which lasted until 1940, when Denis became Gunner McLoughlin, manning the Ack-Ack guns for the Royal Artillery at Woolwich. His proximity to London meant that he could visit prospective employers while on leave, and before war's end he was already providing book-covers and a General Custer comic strip for publisher T.V. Boardman. Demobilised in 1946 and working for Boardman fulltime, he produced numerous cover illustrations before commencing work on the rotogravure comics – printed with a second colour, usually red or green – that were his most well-known accomplishments.

Atypically for British artists of the period, McLoughlin's influences were Americans like Alex Raymond and Will Eisner. With his brother Colin and other writers he filled the comics with the alternating exploits of Roy Carson, a transatlantic private eye working in a weirdly Americanised London, and Victory Vanguard inductee Swift Morgan, a space adventurer of the Flash Gordon variety. These were augmented by reprinted U.S. Quality Comics properties like 'Blackhawk' and 'The Spirit,' the rotogravure format enduring until the early 1950s, by which time the artist had embarked upon his own abiding passion for Americana through the Buffalo Bill Wild West series of annuals. Lovingly researched and including unusual material like articles on ghost-towns, these lasted until 1961 when Denis returned to his cover illustration duties – often using purchased props for reference and his wife Dorothy as a model – before Boardman ceased publishing in 1967.

He provided comic strips for I.P.C/Fleetway's Lion and Tiger weeklies until 1971, when he took two years off to produce Wild and Woolly, his encyclopaedia of the West, then returned to the company to find that his promised employment was no longer open. From 1974 he worked on D.C. Thomson adventure titles such as Wizard and Victor before being moved, in 1983, to their Commando Library series of digest war comics, a genre he hated. Now 65 but unable to afford to retire, Denis laboured at this disagreeable task for twenty years before, in 2002, he took his own life with a Colt Frontier revolver that friends had always assumed was one of his reference replicas. After a more than fifty-year career, this tireless craftsman had finally wearied.

Well, bust our braces if it isn't a funny old business, this cheerful children's chapbook lark! So, until our next serving of sequential shame, please accept an adoring adieu from your cuddly-but-condemnatory colleagues –

Al and Kev

WHAT THOSE EVENTS WERE I COULD NOT SAY. I ONLY REGISTERED SOME INHUMAN ENTITY, SWOOPING THROUGH THE NIGHT AS WE WERE, CLOSING IMPLACABLY ON ITS DESTINATION.

3:08 A.M.

3:08 A.M.

3:08 A.M.

REACHING LONDON, MY ANXIETIES WORSEN.

HOLY SPACE! LET'S MAKE FOR LITTLE MONMOUTH STREET...

N-NO...I'M VISUALIZING SOME SORT OF SPY HEAD-QUARTERS, IN VAUXHALL.

I KNOW THE PLACE.

MATTHEW, I SENSE THIS NIGHTMARE IS GLOBAL.

AGREED. BUT THE CATASTROPHE FACING VAUXHALL AT 3:08 A.M. BEGGARS BELIEF. WE MUST HURRY!

WELL, WE'RE HERE... WITH SECONDS TO SPARE!

C-CAPTAIN, GIVEN THE SCALE OF WHAT'S ABOUT TO HAPPEN, I FEAR WE MAY ALREADY BE TOO LATE.

I-IT'S EXACTLY 3:08 A.M. WE'RE POWERLESS TO PREVENT THIS.

WITH THE PYTHAGORAS-GRANTED POWER OF BI-LOCATION...

...IT'S NEVER TOO LATE.

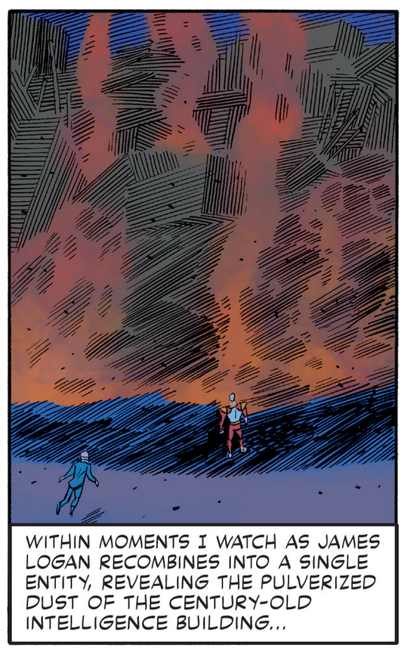
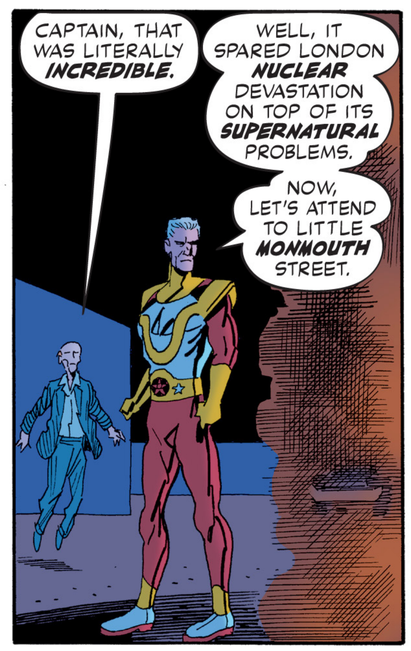
HOPE YOU'RE RECEIVING THIS, MATTHEW.
GOVERNING THE STRONG AND WEAK NUCLEAR FORCES, I'M MINIMISING THE BLAST AND NEUTRALIZING ITS RADIATION.
IT'LL SOON BE OVER.



WITHIN MOMENTS I WATCH AS JAMES LOGAN RECOMBINES INTO A SINGLE ENTITY, REVEALING THE PULVERIZED DUST OF THE CENTURY-OLD INTELLIGENCE BUILDING...



CAPTAIN, THAT WAS LITERALLY INCREDIBLE.
WELL, IT SPARED LONDON NUCLEAR DEVASTATION ON TOP OF ITS SUPERNATURAL PROBLEMS.
NOW, LET'S ATTEND TO LITTLE MONMOUTH STREET.

SATIN AND GARATH SHOULD BE SAFE IN OUR STAR CHAMBER AGAINST LONDON'S MANIFESTING MYTHOLOGY.
THE WEREWOLVES AND SPRING-HEELED JACKS? LET'S HOPE SO...

SOME UNNOTICED PERIL, FILLED WITH IMPLACABLE HATRED AND SEEKING REVENGE. STILL WORSE IS MY FEELING THAT THIS CONCERNS WHAT HAPPENED AT 3:08 A.M.!

Good day, everyone. This is Professor S.F.X. Van Dusen communicating on all channels.

My predictions of global catastrophe in 2010 appear to have been realised. Bulletin updates will be provided.

Having long planned for this eventuality, our prominent colleagues from the science criminal community are currently converging on Lincoln Island and what might be called...

...THE CHARACTER ARK.

Meanwhile, reports from ARDISTAN suggest that British forces and Taliban fighters have united against a resurgence of the war-torn country's GIANT population.

As with similar occurrences worldwide, this is presumably part of the Blazing World's unprecedented act of AGGRESSION.

CUCKOO

This declaration of war on the rational world is confirmed by our leader's returned NAUTILUS, accompanied by the 'pataphysical ROSE OF NOWHERE.

JACK? WHAT DOES VAN DUSEN MEAN BY "CHARACTER ARC?"

I SUSPECT IT'S ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE HUMOUR. NOW, LET US MAKE HASTE...

Reportedly just landed at the Dakkar City Roburdrome are Lord Horror's entourage, plus their ladyships Hortense and Eloise SCARAMANGA.

ARRIVALS

Also, we have news from DUNEDIN, off New Zealand. Naval authorities are engaged with a previously submerged entity, called by its worshippers CTHULHU.

SEC

This supposedly augurs the imminent return of the LLOIGOR, or "Old Ones."

THAT MUST HAVE BEEN WHAT THEY WERE PLOTTING WITH PROSPERO IN THE BLAZING WORLD, MAYBE EVEN BACK IN 1958...

JACK, WHERE'S EVERYONE GOING?

THE SAME PLACE AS WE ARE: TO THE VOLCANO.

"In other world events, the subterranean VRIL-YA people have overwhelmed the Newcastle area, emerging from its abandoned COLLIERIES..."

RUN, FINBARR! THEY'RE COMING! SURGING UP OLD, DISUSED SHAFTS, THEY'RE COMING ALL OVER FULCHESTER!

YINK!

SNURP!

FNARR!

BAKER

...while in southern England, an apparent warp-gate in OXFORD is releasing Jabberwocks, Snarks, and even anti-matter BOOJUMS into our reality.

JACK, WHAT'S GOING ON? YOU SAID YOU HADN'T BEEN ENTIRELY HONEST...

I'VE MISLED YOU. THE SUBMARINE ISN'T MY NEW NAUTILUS.

"Satellite images of the Transylvania region show that the vampire city of SELENE, dormant for decades, has suddenly become active.

"Concurrently, attempts to reactivate 2001's BOWMAN expedition have discovered a giant monolith on JUPITER.

"Connections to Blazing World activity are probable."

Pursuant to this is fresh monolith activity in the Moon's TYCHO crater.

WH-WHAT DO YOU MEAN? IT'S THE MOST ADVANCED MODEL OF THE NAUTILUS I'VE EVER SEEN.

THAT'S JUST THE RESULT OF OUR ROUTINE UPGRADES.

WE'RE HEADED DOWN THIS WAY, INCIDENTALLY.

In more welcome news, the Robur-drome reports the arrival of CRETA MORS, along with persons and valuables retrieved from England.

Expected shortly with details of the nuclear detonation at M.I.5 Headquarters are members of superhuman ensemble THE SEVEN STARS, currently approaching Lincoln.

DID HE SAY THE SEVEN STARS?

I BELIEVE SO. AH, MS. KIDD. MAY I SAY YOU'RE MANAGING THIS COMPLEX COMMENDABLY?

WRANGLING VOLCANOES IS IN MY BLOOD, CAPTAIN. THE SITE'S ALONG THERE...

Elsewhere, logging facilities at ESSENWALD have allegedly succumbed to FOREST ENTITIES...

...which may relate to a similar excursion of paranormal beings from the so-called DEEP DARK WOODS in Washington State.

Remember that Lincoln residents should access the volcano through the Malcolm Lowry tunnel.

This also applies to our island's many distinguished VISITORS.

CLOAK

AQUA

It is now zero minus four hours. Please stand by for further announcements.

SO...SO YOUR NEW NAUTILUS IS A COMPLETELY DIFFERENT FORM OF SUBMERSIBLE?

NO. WE NEMOS ARE TRADITIONALLY MASTERS OF THE DEEP, WHILE CLAN ROBUR ARE MASTERS OF THE AIR.

I AM THE SCION OF BOTH DYNASTIES.

I SHALL BE MASTER TO THE STARS.

NO ORDERED CONSCIOUSNESS, EH? THAT EXPLAINS WHY IT'S IGNORED MY BARBED COMMENTS AND PATRONISING TONE!

Y-YOU MEAN IT'S TIME TO TURN JIM'S ARCHIMEDES-BESTOWED NUCLEAR CAPABILITY LOOSE?

NO! I WON'T ALLOW IT!

WITH RESPECT, VULL, SATIN MIGHT BE RIGHT! LOSING LONDON'S PREFERABLE TO LOSING THE WORLD!

We look forward to receiving your electronic mail! Send it here: tothestars@knockabout.com

Tally-Ho to all you TEMPEST-tormented travellers out there! It's your dissociative dream-weavers Al and Kev, here in our patently pretended publishing premises and surrounded by few or less crudely-conceptualised communications from our largely delusory devotees! Why don't we steam open an entirely ethereal envelope or two and find out what's on your brains?

Dear Al and Kev: Like, I'm sure, many of the readers here in the early 1960s, after reading a chapter of your 48-pages-including-front-cover single published issue of The Seven Stars, I like to put it down and pause for two months or sometimes even longer while I really absorb the full philosophical ramifications of each unfolding episode. For this reason, I have only just finished perusing part four, "Captives of the Creepyverse", and may I say that it has shaken me to my core. As a keen divinity student with a calling to the clergy, I was horrified by your very plausible depiction of an afterlife composed of random floating stuff and obsolete shading effects, surely the creation of no sane deity. I have subsequently abandoned my faith and am now a heroin-pusher and an active Satanist. Some may say that this is a drastic reaction to a single book containing the implausible and often-violent exploits of supernaturally empowered beings, but as a theologian that is kind of how I roll. Yours,

Cedric "Smackhead Beelzebub" Whittington, Pontefract.

Well, Cedric, when it comes to religious matters, we always think back to what our dear old mothers said on the subject, which was that it didn't matter what we believed as long as we weren't hurting anybody else. Of course, that said, we didn't get loads of people hooked on H or cut out their hearts as an offering to our dark master, but that was then. We're not judging.

Dear Al and Kev: Would it be at all possible to focus a bit more on the character of Tommy Walls? Maybe even have the magazine be only about him? My whole family began reading your magazine when I told them Tommy Walls was in it. My parents have been fond of Walls Ice Cream since their childhood. I've overheard them talking about the frosty treat with their friends, more specifically how they have "incorporated it into their lovemaking". I'm not sure what this means, but it must be delightful if it involves Walls Ice Cream. I've often stumbled on my father using cut-and-paste to superimpose Tommy Walls's face onto some rather funny pictures of men doing an odd kind of wrestling. I seem to have gone off on a bit of a tangent, but please just ditch the rest of the characters and focus on the real star (Tommy Walls).

Billy "High Priest of Walls" Billfinger, Paramus.

Billy, your moving missive has left us feeling both elated at receiving our second letter from a real person who we haven't made up, and hugely disheartened that both letters are entirely concerned with the (evidently) breakout character of Tommy Walls, who we short-sightedly killed off five or six pages back. Please tell your parents that we're very sorry, and we hope that our poor business decisions haven't affected their personal relationship. Oh, God, what have we done? If only comics were the kind of medium where you could kill off a character for cheap dramatic effect and then have them turn up a few issues later as if nothing had happened.

Dear Al and Kev: While you must be very excited about the current global media frenzy over your character Tommy Walls – the countless headlines, the Saturday Night Live parody with Alec Baldwin as Tommy, the unprecedented statement from the Vatican, etc., etc. – I think you should know that here in the ranks of crappy black and white 1960s British comic fandom, there's a fast-growing buzz about a character who could be even bigger than the Ice Cream-reliant Icon himself! I refer of course to Speed Gale's endlessly fascinating boy partner, Gary. Obviously, his major appeal is that it's every lad's dream to dress up as a sort of teddy-bear and perform dangerous acts under the supervision of a similarly-dressed adult, but this ignores the essential enigma of Gary: if the teddy-bear costume is meant to conceal his identity, why is he called Gary? Unless, of course, Gary is not his actual first name, which only raises a bigger question – why is he called Gary? The rumour here in what we call c.b.a.w.1960s.B.c.f. is that you'll be addressing these puzzles in a forthcoming graphic novel entitled Gary: We're So Glad We Didn't Render Him Comatose In The Same Issue Where We Killed Tommy Walls. Whatever you do, don't ever let anything bad happen to this find-of-the-millennium! Yours,

Brent Trent, Gwent

Technically, Brent, Gary could wake from his coma next issue. Although, to be honest, he won't.

Dear Al and Kev: It's distressing to imagine that in the far future women will still have tight figure-hugging costumes and stripper-type names like 'Satin Astro'. Although, thinking about it, I suppose it could be worse. Sincerely,

Margaret Atwood, Gilead-on-the-Yukon

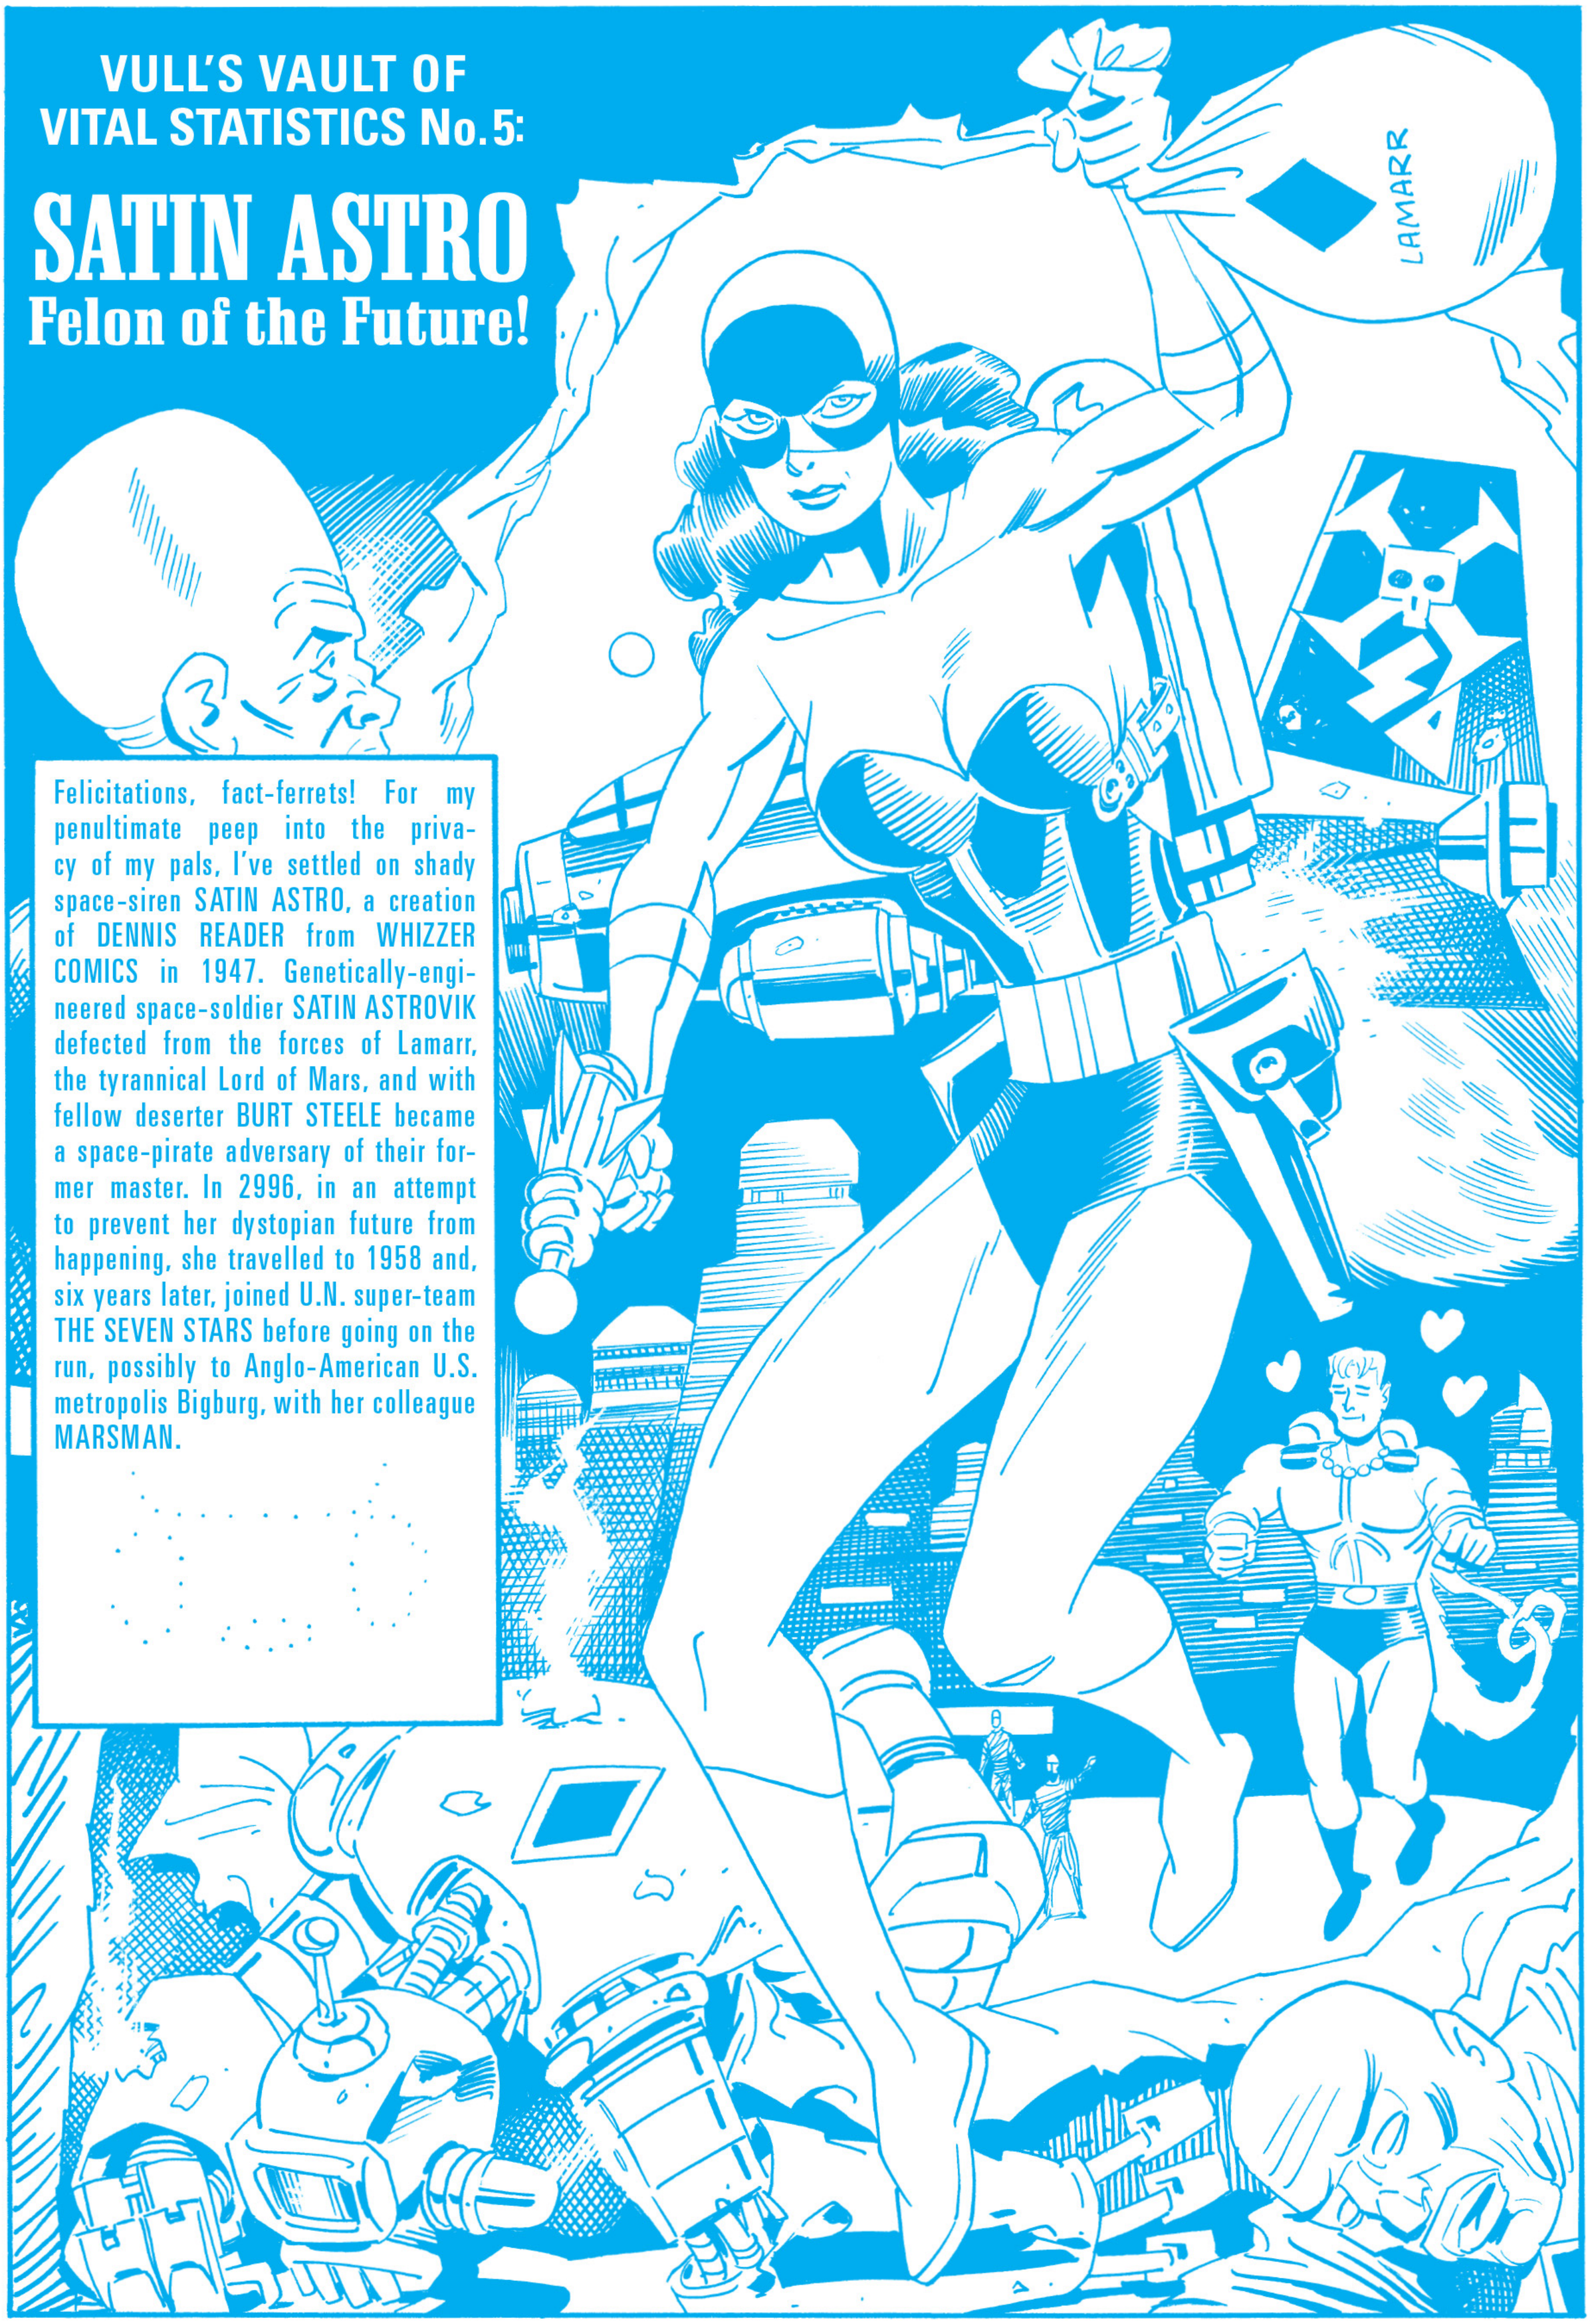
Margaret, if you'd been lucky enough to be christened 'Silky Stardust' or something, we're sure you'd cheer up and see things differently. Anyway, once more we're out of room and/or the will to live. Be here next issue for a final flurry of falsified fan-mail with your febrile factotums –

Al and Kev

VULL'S VAULT OF VITAL STATISTICS No. 5:

SATIN ASTRO

Felon of the Future!



Felicitations, fact-ferrets! For my penultimate peep into the privacy of my pals, I've settled on shady space-siren SATIN ASTRO, a creation of DENNIS READER from WHIZZER COMICS in 1947. Genetically-engineered space-soldier SATIN ASTROVIK defected from the forces of Lamarr, the tyrannical Lord of Mars, and with fellow deserter BURT STEELE became a space-pirate adversary of their former master. In 2996, in an attempt to prevent her dystopian future from happening, she travelled to 1958 and, six years later, joined U.N. super-team THE SEVEN STARS before going on the run, possibly to Anglo-American U.S. metropolis Bigburg, with her colleague MARSMAN.

No. 6: RON TURNER

Stripe us pink, is that the time already? Departing deities Al and Kev here, edging towards extinction in this tear-stained, terminal TEMPEST, and for our final 2000AD-themed curtain-call, what better robbed royalty than England's sovereign of science fiction, the remarkable Ron Turner?

Norwich-born in 1922, Ron's childhood years were saturated by H.G. Wells and Amazing Stories, copying the covers of which seems to be his only tutoring in art. Aged just 14, already an apprentice at London publishing house Odhams, he was soon providing illustrations for their Modern Wonder magazine. Drafted in 1940, Ron returned to illustration later in that decade with the adventures of "The Atomic Mole" for Scion's Big series. By this point he had acquired an agent, Mr. Hall – who had, apparently, only one client, and was mistakenly believed to be Turner himself – and from then on it seems that hardly anybody ever met Ron Turner.

For Odhams he produced paperback covers, and in 1953 worked on the Tit-Bits Science Fiction Comics series, followed by "Space Ace" for Lone Star. In 1954 he took over "Rick Random: Space Detective" for Amalgamated Press's Super-Detective Library, drawing it for the next five years and making it his own. As the appetite for science fiction waned, Turner worked on publications such as Practical Mechanics, where it may be he acquired his skill for credible and handsome futuristic hardware – though some claim the enigmatic artist was a garden-shed inventor in his own right.

In 1965 he crafted his first colour strip, a "Stingray" episode for TV Century 21, and then the following year began what some think his finest comic work: "The Daleks," beautifully adorned with tropical pulp colours. Working on various Gerry Anderson characters until 1969, Ron returned to Amalgamated Press, now Fleetway, to work on their Tiger and Hurricane weekly. When IPC absorbed Fleetway, he found himself working with writer Steve Moore on "Wonder Car" for Whizzer and Chips, where editorial assistant Kevin O'Neill marvelled at Turner's immaculate brushwork.

The later 1970s saw Turner working for IPC's Action and the same company's 2000AD, on both Judge Dredd and a revived Rick Random, once again with Steve Moore. Turner worked on Action – now Battle Action – until 1984, when it is believed that Mr. Hall died and many publishers met Turner for the first time. With a new agent, Turner fan John Lawrence, Turner worked on comic strips for independent publishers, before returning to paperback cover illustration in the 1990s. He contributed a new "Daleks" strip to Doctor Who Magazine, dying of a heart-attack in 1998, aged 76.

Leaving no family, friends, or anecdotes, Ron Turner dedicated his life to comics, then vanished without a trace. Faceless and forgotten, he stands for all our cheated champions.

And with that, we're sprinting for the exit before the national anthem. Look after yourselves, look after your creators, and spare a fond tear for your absconding archangels –

So, are we finished with all this?

I fear so, but please don't trouble yourself. Mrs. Hudson's son can clear it away presently.

I've greatly enjoyed your company, Miss Murray.

And I yours.

Human civlization is everywhere suffering collapse, as I predicted.

In Ireland, humanoid pig-monsters are reportedly teeming from a precarious clifftop edifice in County Galway.

Closer to the Riallaro Archipelago, distress messages from Zara's Kingdom suggest it has fallen to the fish-creatures from nearby Marsh's Island.

It is as well we're firing Lincoln before they can shoal this far south.

THAT MATCHES FUTURE HISTORY. COULD THIS PROSPERO BE INFLUENCING THE MOON?

Conceivably. The black MONOLITHS discovered there a decade ago began transmitting when the disturbances commenced on EARTH.

TRANSMITTING WHAT, AND TO WHOM?

The signals were apparently intended for Luna's INSECT population, the SELENITES.

Previously reclusive, these tank-sized arthropods are currently assaulting Earth's lunar colonies.

As seen in these final broadcasts from Germany's ROTWANG base, the selenites carry before them a frozen human cadaver, presumably their tribal DEITY.

OH GOD. TH- THAT'S SELWYN CAVOR!

With the European, Chinese and Russian colonies already overrun, the last human outpost, America's "Pride of Baltimore" base, faces certain annihilation.

As elsewhere, the insects are destroying living facilities while leaving manufacturing plants and space vehicles UNTOUCHED.

The attacks appear strategically DIRECTED.

DM

Link Violeen's All-He-Can-Draw Robot Works

The insects possibly mistake monolith transmissions for commands from their IDOL.

I--I MIGHT KNOW SOMETHING ABOUT THIS...

IN 1965, AFTER THE SEVEN STARS DISBANDED, PROSPERO SENT ME TO THE MOON WITH THE GALLEY-WAG.

WE DISCOVERED TWO WARRING RACES: NATIVE SELENITES AND ADVANCED AMAZON WOMEN MIGRATED FROM A DISTANT GALAXY.

THEIR MALES DEAD FROM PLAGUE, THE AMAZONS HAD ABDUCTED CAVOR, THE SELENITES' GOD, FOR HIS FROZEN SPERM.

I AVERTED WAR, RETURNING CAVOR'S BODY TO THE INSECTS AND FINDING THE AMAZONS ANOTHER ICE-PRESERVED DONOR.

TH-THEY FACED EXTINC-TION.

This perhaps explains the naked humanoid cavalry at present repurposing the captured terrestrial BASES...

A WAR FLEET! WE MUST PRE-PARE.

JACK, IS THIS ALL PROSPERO'S DOING, OR SIMPLY AMAZON OPPOR-TUNISM?

THIS LUNAR ARMADA MIGHT BE HEADED FOR EARTH, OR, CONCEIVABLY, FOR US.

MS. ASTRO? WHAT ARE WE SEEING?

WE'RE ABOVE WOTAN. THE INVADERS ARE DESTROYING ESCAPE ROUTES ACROSS THE SCHIAPARELLI CANAL.

THESE ARE SURGICAL STRIKES.

THE PSYCHIC DISTRESS FROM SORNISIA I'M REGISTERING SUGGESTS A PLANET-WIDE ASSAULT.

CAN WE INVESTIGATE MY HOME?

CERTAINLY. NAUTILUS? WE'RE VISITING NEW VARNAL.

THAT'S WEST OF WOTAN, BORDERING GULLIVAR'S LAND?

GULLIVAR'S LAND WAS RENAMED HITHERIUM, BUT YES--IT'S GARATH'S BIRTHPLACE, WITH SOME INTERESTING STRUCTURES IN ITS VICINITY.

INTERESTING STRUCTURES?

WELL, THE STENDAHL HOUSE IS FURTHER WEST, AND... WAIT. WE'VE REACHED NEW VARNAL. FROM THE MASSACRED DEFENSE-BANTHS, IT APPEARS ALREADY CAPTURED.

THE STATUE OF HÉLÈNE SMITH IS GONE. WITHOUT IT, MY CITY'S MORALE WOULD COLLAPSE.

THE INVADERS ARE AS TACTICALLY BRILLIANT AS THEY ARE RUTHLESS. NOTHING CAN BE DONE.

WE'RE CONTINUING WESTWARD...

HI, EMMA. ARE THE PENNIES OKAY?

THEY'RE FINE. THE INVADERS' STRATEGIES ARE UN-BEATABLE, THEN?

FOR A FORMERLY PACIFISTIC RACE, APPARENTLY SO.

THAT'S MINA'S INTER-VENTION: MORE AGGRESSIVE MALES.

THIS ISN'T MY FAULT.

NOBODY SAID IT WAS...BUT THESE LUNITES DO SEEM FIENDISHLY CLEVER.

NAUTILUS, WE'VE FOUND HÉLÈNE SMITH'S STATUE.

IT'S DESTROYED, BUT MY SENSORS SUGGEST THAT IT WAS SHORTLY BEFORE THE INVASION, IN AN ATTACK FROM THE WEST.

SMITH WAS A 19th-CENTURY TERRESTRIAL MEDIUM WORSHIPPED IN NEW VARNAL AS A PROPHET, THOUGH SHE NEVER FORESAW THIS.

IF FORCES FROM THE WEST DID THIS, WE SHOULD INSPECT THE STENDAHL HOUSE, FURTHER ON.

WHAT'S THAT?

AN ANOMALY. BUILT BY WILLIAM STENDAHL IN 2005, DESTROYED THAT SAME YEAR, IT HAS APPARENTLY RE-GENERATED.

What?

BEING ECCENTRICALLY DESIGNED AFTER THE FICTIONS OF AUTHOR EDGAR ALLAN POE, IT'S KNOWN AS USHER II.

HOW IT REBUILDS ITSELF ISN'T CLEAR, BUT...

SATIN? I'VE DISCOVERED WHAT TOPPLED SMITH'S STATUE, ABETTING THE INVASION.

IN DUAL-MOONED DUSK WHERE GREY SEDGE BRISTLED FROM PINK MARTIAN SOIL, THAT DISMAL MANSION OVERLOOKED THE BLACK AND LURID WATERS OF ITS TARN.

SELF-RESURRECTED BY ROBOTIC WORKINGS, THE BLEAK EDIFICE ONCE MORE POURED FORTH ALL ITS SUPPRESSED, FORGOTTEN AND DELETED FICTIONS, ALL ITS BOOK-BURNED REVENANTS.

POE'S RAZOR-WIELDING APE DANCED IN THE CAULDRON-STEAM OF SHAKE-SPEARE'S THREE WEIRD SISTERS. BLACKWOOD'S WENDIGO HOWLED GLITTERING CIRRUS ICE INTO AN OTHERWORLDLY STRATOSPHERE.

STIRRED BY THE CHILL WIND OF APPROACHING NIGHT, FADED ROSE DUNES SHIFTED UNEASILY. ON A RED PLANET, THE RED DEATH ANNOUNCED HIS AWFUL KINGDOM.

We look backward to receiving your electronic mail! Send it here: tothestars@knockabout.com

Evenin', all! The 'Great News for Readers Inside' mentioned on the cover is that this is the last issue; Al and Kev are disappearing forever into witness protection; the comics industry and western civilisation as we know it are both coughing blood; and the universe is, of course, heading inexorably towards the black, freezing extinction of entropy! (We'd remind you that, as in the phrases 'The Great War', 'The Great Depression', 'Great Britain', and 'Make America Great Again', 'great' doesn't necessarily mean 'good.') So, let's all try to numb our feelings by struggling one last time through the hollow pantomime that is our letters page!

Dear Al and Kev: Made-up I may be, but the fifth chapter of your Seven Stars crappy black and white 1960s British comic is an insult to my condescendingly-imagined intelligence! How do any of these underdressed vigilantes know that their adversary is called "the 'Mass"? The Seven Stars only call it that because that's how poor Mark Tyme referred to it in chapter one! Now, in chapter five, we learn that Mark Tyme only called it "the 'Mass" because that's what Captain Universe had just told him! Don't you see that this fatally undermines the whole logic of what had, until then, been a perfectly believable narrative? The pair of you make me sick, and you may rest assured that I shall not be reading any comics that you may produce in my imaginary future! Yours disappointedly,

Chester Tester, Leicester.

Yeah, whatever.

Dear Al and Kev: Can I just say, as a beautiful and intelligent woman, how sorry I am that the comics world is losing its two wittiest and most handsome creators? I'm sure I speak for thousands of beautiful and intelligent women like myself when I say that the industry will be oafish and homely without you, and that I personally shall weep for the rest of my now-empty life. Yours, heartbroken,

Salome Einstein, Middlesbrough.

Salome, if only all our tragic projections of a female audience saw the world as clearly as you do! Sadly, an overwhelming majority of the women that we pretend to have received letters from accuse us of being racists and misogynists, which is particularly hurtful when it comes from people that we ourselves have invented. Of all our made-up female readers, Salome, you are by far the nicest, to the point where we imagine you having some sort of a face. Be lucky.

Dear Al and Kev: Like my pen-pal Chester Tester (above), I despise both you and your single published issue of The Seven Stars! The last page of chapter six, supposedly the culmination and payoff of this whole long-winded saga, made no sense at all! Who was that woman, and what was that she was dancing with? Was it Captain Hurricane? And where were they? And why was it drawn much better than all the other pages, and in colour? Despite your claims that readers here in 1964 should just follow the story and not worry about stray references, I perceive you as evil individuals who have, for some reason, spent twenty years of your lives subjecting your readership to a hateful quiz! That said, your portrayal of well-known contemporary characters like Ju-Jitsu Jimmy is both moving and profound. How about coming out of retirement to do a mini-series? Yours, with conflicting emotions,

Bing King, Tring.

Bing, our old bull and bush, while we never intended our background allusions as an obsessive-compulsive competition, we have a certain amount of sympathy with your grievance because you're stuck in 1964 with only an excellent library service to refer your questions to. If you'd hailed from fifty years later and had all the world's knowledge at your fingertips, we might have thought you were an indolent dolt who just liked having something to complain about.

Dear Al and Kev: As a middle-aged conservative incel sitting wedged behind my keyboard, trolling Alexandria Ocasio Cortez with my Batman T-shirt covered in Pringles, can I just ask, with a straight face, why you're leaving the comics business? Yours,

Hiram J. Comicsgate III, Oklahodahio.

Yes, Hiram, our old testament, you apparently can. And with that, as the ghost of Peggy Mount asks us to lift our feet so that she can hoover under them, we've reached the end of our long-running variety spectacular. Of course, we could never have got this far without the brilliantly inventive chameleon lettering of Todd Klein, taking over from the sublime Bill Oakley, or the glorious period-perfect colours of Ben Dimagmaliw. Chaps, it's been an absolute privilege working with you. We made quite a team, didn't we? And you, the readers who've been with us through all this; the people who've followed this book because they, y'know, enjoyed it and maybe thought that stitching all the world's culture into one ridiculous quilt was an interesting idea; you have always been part of that team. You're the most intelligent and appreciative audience we could ever have hoped for. Your support has meant everything, and that, alone in this delirious farrago of allusion and reference, is not a fiction. So, as we canter inexpertly into the smog, hopefully in the direction of the sunset, we waggle our Stetsons ambiguously and wish you all the fondest of farewells from your no-longer-relevant nonagenarians –

Al and Kev

VULL'S VAULT OF VITAL STATISTICS No.6:

ZOM–

Carcass with a Conscience!

Howdy, hearsay-hoarders! My final fact-finding foray into the fortunes of my friends focusses on do-gooder dead body, ZOM OF THE ZODIAC. Created by STANLEY KENDRICK PERKINS in one 1948 issue of Scion's BIG WIN comic, deceased horoscope compiler EUSEBIUS ZOM was granted the commendable power of transforming humans so they could solve their own problems by strange astrological entities. Working briefly with U.N. super-team THE SEVEN STARS in 1964, Zom was eventually discorporated in 1966 by weirdo aristocrat THE DUKE DE RICHLEAU, which was certainly an unfortunate turn of...

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH ALL THIS STUFF?

WELL, I'D THOUGHT "FIRE," BUT WE'RE UNDER-INSURED. I'VE ARRANGED A REMOVAL VAN FOR LATER.

ISN'T THIS OUR OLD LIMEHOUSE SET?

FORGET IT, KEV. IT'S CHINATOWN.

Y'KNOW, I REMEMBER THE LONG, TOUGH COUPLE OF MINUTES THAT I SPENT DESCRIBING ALL THOSE BATTLE-KITES FOR YOU TO CONSTRUCT AND DRAW.

MM. BUT THAT'S VICTORIANS FOR YOU. IN 1958, WITH THE BLACK DOSSIER, AT LEAST THE CHARACTERS COULD HOLD THEIR BOOZE.

THAT'S TRUE... ALTHOUGH SOME PEOPLE DIDN'T MUCH LIKE THE BLACK DOSSIER, DID THEY?

WELL, IT WASN'T THE BLOOMSBURY JUSTICE LEAGUE ANYMORE, THERE WAS TOO MUCH BOOK-READING, AND WE WERE UNKIND ABOUT JAMES BOND.

THAT'S WHEN WE LEARNED THAT CRITICISING POPULAR THINGS WOULD MAKE US HATED, WASN'T IT?

IT WAS INDEED. AND YET IN CENTURY WE DELIBERATELY MADE IT WORSE. DO YOU THINK THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH US?

I THINK IT'S FAIR TO SAY WE'RE COMPLEX FIGURES WHO'VE BEEN ON A JOURNEY.
